

SECONDARY EDUCATION AT VALPARAISO UNIVERSITY

If you are interested in teaching high school age students, you will enroll in either a B.S. or B.A. degree at Valparaiso University with two majors: one in secondary education and one in the subject area you would like to teach.

Requirements for these degrees include both general education and education department courses, all of which are designed to prepare you to ensure the learning success of all your future students.

Please consult the Valparaiso University Undergraduate Catalog for the general education requirements for your degree in the following:
