

The objective of the new Humanitarian Engineering Minor is to give students the understanding and the opportunity to apply engineering concepts to improve the welfare of the less advantaged. It is intended to complement on-going humanitarian projects in the College of Engineering such as the Engineers Without Borders irrigation project and the Nicaragua wind-energy project. More...