

College of Engineering - Valparaiso University
STUDENT ACHIEVEMENTS (2007)

- A Valparaiso University engineering student has won the Edward J. Cox Memorial Transportation Scholarship from the Institute of Transportation Engineers for the fifth time in seven years. Alan Holderread, a sophomore civil engineering major from North Liberty, received the $2,500 scholarship from the Indiana Section of ITE in recognition of his academic performance, involvement in co-curricular activities, demonstrated leadership abilities and career plans in transportation engineering or planning. (March 6, 2007)
- For the second consecutive year, an engineering student at Valparaiso University has been named to USA Today's All-USA College Academic Team, which recognizes the nation's most outstanding students. David Wheeler, a senior electrical engineering major from St. Charles, Ill., was named to the Third Team along with 19 other students.