

COMMUNITY RESOURCES

Valparaiso University's location provides a unique opportunity to experience both a small-town community and an urban city's resources. Valparaiso itself offers numerous ways to participate in community service, community arts programs and traditional town events. The larger Northwest Indiana region offers a diversity of community service organizations, small and large commercial groups and businesses, and fine arts programs. Chicago, only an hour away, affords an even deeper look into the cultural, political, economic, and social aspects of various fields of interest.
