

EXTRACURRICULAR GROUPS

You can participate in the more than 100 campus organizations at Valparaiso University. By taking part in these extracurricular activities, you can explore a wide variety of interests. Writing for the newspaper, hosting a radio show, being involved in community service, or running for a seat in Student Senate can help you decide what course of study you wish to pursue. And, meeting so many new people through extracurricular groups will give you a network of people with which to discuss majors, careers, and areas of interest.
