

CABLE TELEVISION

Cable Television is provided to each residence hall room by the university. Valparaiso University receives a customized channel line up with more than 75 different channels of entertainment, sports, news, local broadcast and educational content. The service will be broadcast throughout campus and will be provided free to campus residents as a convenience of occupancy. All that is necessary to receive the service is a cable ready television set and a coaxial cable to connect the television to the cable outlet in the wall.

Departments may also take advantage of the new service. The only cost to the department is the cost of running the coax cable to the desired location. Departments wanting cable service in new locations should submit a service request to the IT Help Desk.

To see a complete listing of the channels available, go to www.zap2it.com and enter the zip code 46383. Select "Valparaiso University – Cable" at the end of the cable providers for our area to see the VU channel listing.
