

VALPONET ACCOUNT INFORMATION

As a student, faculty, staff, or affiliated person of Valparaiso University, you have an account which gives you access to a number of information technology resources on the Valparaiso University network. To access these resources, you will need to know your ValpoNet account name (sometimes referred to as username or login name) and your password. Occasionally others affiliated with Valparaiso University are authorized to use resources while engaged in special programs, employment, or support activities--consultants, visiting scholars, graduated students assisting faculty projects, or VU affiliates like the Book Center. Accounts will remain active while you maintain direct affiliation with the university.

Please refer to the following documents for how to use Identity Manager to change your password
