

Paul H. Brietzke
Valparaiso University School of Law
Valparaiso, Indiana 46383-6493
Office: (219) 465-7875 (or Secretary at 7920)
Home: (219) 462-1082
e-mail: Paul.Brietzke@valpo.edu

CURRICULUM VITAE

Date of Birth: 30 July 1944

Married, one child

EDUCATION:

Ph.D. in Law, University of London, June 1979.

Thesis: Law, Development, and the Ethiopian Revolution
(published by Bucknell Univ. Press, 1982).

Juris Doctor, University of Wisconsin Law School, Madison, Wisconsin, June 1969. Honors: Kemper Knapp Scholarship. Activities: Law Students' Civil Rights Research Council. Admitted to Practice: State Bar of Wisconsin, August 1969.

B.A. (Honors) in Economics, Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Illinois, June 1966. Honors: Phi Beta Kappa. Activities: Film Workshop (film aesthetics and actual production), Teaching Assistantship in Economics, 1965-66.

EMPLOYMENT:

Chief Legal Advisor, Ministry of Justice, Republic of Indonesia, in Jakarta, January 1999 to August 2000. I helped draft and implement anti-corruption, administrative, arbitration, bankruptcy, competition policy (antitrust, including the establishment of the Commission), consumer protection, corporations and (a quasi-legal) corporate governance, judicial, lawyers' association letter of credit/warehouse receipt, rural land tenure, secured transactions, small business, and microcredit, WTO compliance, etc. legal and policy reforms. I also ran the small ($800,000/year), AID-funded Economic Law and Improved Procurement Systems Project (ELIPS).

Fulbright Professor, National Economics University, Hanoi, Vietnam, Sept.-Dec. 1998. As the first Fulbrighter in Vietnam, I taught International Trade Law to fourth-year law students; led a Faculty Seminar, composed of 22 younger lecturers in business administration, economics, and law, on recent reforms in economic laws; and lectured and consulted on a variety of subjects.

Professor of Law (tenured), Valparaiso University School of Law, August 1978 to present. Courses taught: Antitrust, Law and Economics, Contracts, and Seminars in Globalization (presently being taught, details on request), International Human Rights and in Law and Public Policy. I have from time to time served on the Curriculum, Faculty Recruitment, Tenured Faculty, Graduate Education, Library, and Visitors' Committees, on the University-wide Faculty Concerns Committee, and served as a Director of the University Federal Credit Union and as faculty advisor to the International Law Society and the University Rugby Team. Outside the University, I am active in the International Third World Legal Studies Assn., the Executive Committee of the Association of American Law School's African Law Section, the local ACLU Chapter's Legal Panel, and Editor of African Studies Review (1981-88 and Guest Editor for the Vol. 27 (4) World Bank Symposium). In Summer 1980, I received a National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowship to Yale University, for a Seminar led by the late Robert Cover in the evolution of the Supreme Court's economic

