Valparaiso University School of Law empowers talented individuals to realize their potential and achieve success in their chosen careers. Our graduates, as leaders in the profession and their communities, make a difference. VU continues to be the largest Lutheran-affiliated educational institution in the U.S. The University holds membership in the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools.

The Valparaiso University School of Law (School of Law) was founded in 1879 as the Northern Indiana Law School. In 1905 it became part of Valparaiso University. School of Law received its American Bar Association accreditation in 1929 and was admitted into membership in the Association of American Law Schools in 1930. The degree of Juris Doctor, which is granted by the School, is approved by the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York. ## Degree Programs

Juris Doctor Degree (J.D.)

The University offers a three-year full-time program, an accelerated program, and a five-year part-time program leading to the degree of Juris Doctor (J.D.). In no case may a student construct a schedule which permits conferral of the degree prior to five regular full-time semesters plus qualifying summer sessions or eight part-time residency semesters plus two or more summer sessions. The degree is conferred upon recommendation of the faculty of the School of Law. All work toward a degree must be completed to the satisfaction of the faculty. In all cases, the student is responsible for meeting the requirements for graduation.

A student who returns to the School of Law after an absence of two or more years may no longer be a candidate for a degree on the basis of the Bulletin under which the student first entered the University but must fulfill for graduation all the requirements and provisions of the Bulletin of the year in which the student re-enters the University.

Course Credit and Numerical Grade Requirements

A candidate for graduation must complete, in good faith, 90.0 credit hours; must receive passing grades in all courses required for the degree; must have a cumulative average of at least 2.000; must fulfill the pro bono requirement; and must attend classes regularly in all courses taken for credit.

Master of Laws Degree (LL.M.)

The Master of Laws (LL.M.) is designed primarily for international students who have a law degree and wish to enhance their understanding of the American legal system. Students in the LL.M. program take classes with students enrolled in the Juris Doctor (J.D.) program, and are encouraged to participate in co-curricular activities with J.D. students.

LL.M. students must complete a minimum of 24 credit hours with a cumulative grade point average of 2.0/4.0 or better. Students complete the program as a full-time student in 1 to 1 ½ years. International students with an F-1 or J-1 visa must attend the university as full-time students. The full-time course load for LL.M. students is 8 credit hours.

The LL.M. program allows students to choose their own area of concentration. With the assistance and approval of the program director, students will develop a specific area of study that coincides with their individual needs and interests. The only required course is Law 700 - Introduction to American Law and Legal Education.

Doctor of Juridical Science (S.J.D.)

The primary purpose of the S.J.D. program is to provide an opportunity and environment for scholarly research mainly for persons who are either in or are preparing for academic or comparable scholarly legal careers. The program requires at least two semesters of residence, the satisfactory completion of an oral examination, and a dissertation that is an original contribution to the literature of the law. S.J.D. candidates must already hold the LL.M. degree.

J.D./M.A. (Psychology) Dual Degree

Many aspects of legal practice include a psychological dimension. Professional legal practice includes nuanced interviewing skills, empathy for clients, inference of motivation, prediction of recidivism, modification of behavior, and consumption of psychological reports and expert testimony.

In spring 1999, the law school faculty approved a new J.D./M.A. dual degree program. The four-year program (108 hours--84 law & 24 psychology) provides traditional legal training, exposure to psychological theory and methods, and integrative training in the application of psychological foundations to the practice of law. Graduates of the J.D./M.A. program will have a foundational background in psychology. The 30-hour curriculum for the Master of Arts is specifically designed to support and inform the practice of law rather than to prepare for the practice of psychology.

Students may apply a maximum of 6 credit hours from J.D. to the M.A. from the following law courses (completed with grades of B or better): Law-412 Alternative Dispute Resolution, Law-485 Family Law, Law-488 Selected Topics in Elder Law, Law-406 Children and the Law, Law-486 Law and Health Care Process, Law-487 Elder Law, Law-425 Race and the Law, Law-662 Clinic, and Law-245 Pretrial Skills. Graduate courses that will transfer (up to 6 credit hours) towards the J.D. degree are: PSY-602, PSY-620, PSY-630, PSY-640, PSY-662, PSY-691, PSY-693, PSY-694, PSY-660.

J.D./M.A. (Clinical Mental Health Counseling) Dual Degree

The J.D./M.A. in Clinical Mental Health Counseling is an extension of the J.D./M.A. (Psychology) program that includes the substantial number of graduate psychology courses and applied experiences required for those interested in eligibility for licensure as a mental health counselor in Indiana (and most other states). As with the shorter program, two of a select group of law courses can be counted toward the degree and the PSY-700 course is included as a requirement.

Students may apply a maximum of 6 credit hours from J.D. to the M.A.CMHC from the following law courses (completed with grades of B or better): Law-412 Alternative Dispute Resolution, Law-485 Family Law, Law-488 Selected Topics in Elder Law, Law-406 Children and the Law, Law-486 Law and Health Care Process, Law-487 Elder Law, Law-425 Race and the Law, Law-662 Clinic, and Law-245 Pretrial Skills. Graduate courses that will transfer (up to 6 credit hours) towards the J.D. degree are: PSY-602, PSY-620, PSY-630, PSY-640, PSY-662, PSY-691, PSY-693, PSY-694, PSY-660, and PSY-700 Psychology Integrative Project.

J.D./M.A.C.S. Dual Degree

The dual J.D./M.A. in Chinese Studies (M.A.C.S.) program enables law students to meet the growing demand for students with fluency in Chinese combined with conventional degrees and professional experience. The M.A.C.S. program is an innovative program designed to prepare students in any field of undergraduate study who have at least two years of college Chinese language for the opportunities and challenges posed by the emergence of China as a formidable political and economic force on the world stage. The 37-credit graduate program emphasizes developing fluency in Mandarin Chinese language as well as an understanding of Chinese cultures, politics, history, and society. It also provides opportunities for students to grow professionally by enrolling in graduate level coursework in their field of interest. As such, this credential (and associated language skills) will distinguish program graduates among their peers in a relatively short period of time. As part of a summer immersion semester in China, students will engage in intensive language training and cultural experiences. This program requires application to both the Law Admissions and Graduate Admissions offices.

Students may apply a maximum of 6 credit hours from J.D. to the M.A.C.S. from the following law courses: Law-270 Comparative Law, Law-277 Public International Law: Intro, and Law-278 International Law: Use of Force. Graduate courses that will transfer (up to 6 credit hours) towards the J.D. degree are: CHST-590/690, and CHST-686.

J.D./M.A.L.S. Dual Degree

The J.D./M.A.L.S. program enables students in the School of Law to take advantage of the wide range of concentrations offered through the M.A.L.S. graduate program. The flexible and individualized nature of the M.A.L.S. program makes the degree an attractive enhancement to the J.D. Students must complete application to and be admitted by both the School of Law and the Graduate Office.

Students may apply a maximum of 6 credit hours from Law to the M.A.L.S. from their M.A.L.S. coursework. Graduate courses that will transfer (up to 6 credit hours) towards the J.D. degree are: LS-650 Seminar in Religion, Culture and Value, LS-610 Seminar in Humanities, LS-620 Seminar in Social Sciences, LS-630 Seminar in the Natural Sciences, LS-640 Seminar in the Fine Arts.

J.D./M.B.A. Dual Degree

The dual J.D./M.B.A. program offers students the opportunity to pursue both degrees simultaneously. Credit sharing between the two programs allows most students to complete the dual degree curriculum within four years. The curriculum credit loads per year once you have started law school are, generally, as follows: year one - 100% law school; year two - 60% law school and 40% business; year three - 40% law school and 60% business; year four - 60% law school and 40% business. Admission to the J.D./M.B.A. requires taking both the LSAT and the GMAT. J.D./M.B.A. students enrolled in a mixed course load (i.e., in both Law and M.B.A. courses) will pay the lesser of either the per credit hour rate for the number of credits taken that semester in each program, or the full-time J.D. tuition rate for that same semester. Specifically, the tuition for a student taking a mixed course load will not exceed the one semester full-time J.D. tuition rate. Students enrolled in the J.D./M.B.A. program pay the graduate general fee while enrolled solely in the M.B.A. program. Once beginning law school, students pay the general fee of the School of Law until they have completed their law program.

M.B.A. courses that count as electives for the J.D. degree are: MBA-610 Accounting Information for Decision Analysis, MBA-620 Financial Analysis, MBA-710 Taxes and Decision Making, MBA-714 Current Events and Business Reporting Issues, MBA-

720 Investment Management, MBA-721 Advanced Financial Management, MBA-730 Brand Management, MBA-741 Global Supply Chain Management, MBA-753 Business Ethics for Values-Based Leaders, MBA-760 Management Best Sellers, MBA-790 Special Topics, MBA-791 Field Projects, and MBA-795 Independent Study.

Law courses that will count as electives for the M.B.A. are: Law-203 Business Associations, Law-448 Environmental Law, Law-409 Labor Arbitration, Law-410 International Business Transactions, Law-416 Non-profit Organizations, Law-440 Regulation of Industry, Law-443 Antitrust Law, Law-444 Workers' Compensation Law, Law-445 Labor Law, Law-446 Employment Law, Law-448 Environmental Law, Law-489 Employee Health Plans: ERISA & HIPAA, Law-504 Mergers and Acquisitions, and Law-505 Income Taxation of Corporations and Partnerships.

J.D./M.B.A. students may take no more than 15 credits per semester (fall and spring) while enrolled in the M.B.A. program only and no more than 18 credits per semester (fall and spring) once beginning law school. Students enrolled in summer sessions may take no more than 14 credits, only 7 of which may be law credits.

J.D./M.S. International Commerce and Policy

The dual J.D./M.S. in International Commerce and Policy program enables law students to broaden their understanding of international business, policy, and economics while pursuing their J.D. degree. Students can draw elective course work from business, political science, economics, law, and foreign language courses. Law students may apply 6 credits of coursework taken in the Graduate Division toward their J.D. degree, and 6 credits of specified law coursework may be applied toward the Master of Science in International Commerce & Policy.

Law courses that will count as electives for the J.D./M.S.I.C.P. program are: Law-270 Comparative Law, Law-280 Law and Economics, Law-410 International Business Transactions, Law-277 Public International Law: Intro, Law-278 International Law: Use of Force, and approved externships 2-3 credit hours. M.S. courses that will count up to 6 credit hours as electives towards the J.D. degree are ECON-626 International Trade, and ICP-662 International Competitiveness, Politics and Policies.

J.D./M.S. Sports Administration

The dual J.D./M.S. in Sports Administration provides law students with the opportunity to enhance their understanding of management of sports programs, personnel, and facilities. The 35-credit program capitalizes upon the University's NCAA Division I status and may have special interest to J.D. students interested in entertainment law, sports, athletics, or recreation. Law students may apply 6 credits of course work taken in the Graduate Division toward their J.D. degree, and 6 credits of specified law course work may be applied toward the Master of Science in Sports Administration.

Law courses that will count as electives for the J.D./M.S.S.A are: Law-100 Contracts, Law-236-G Drafting: Intellectual Property, Law-409 Labor Arbitration, Law-437 Intellectual Property, Law-438 Entertainment Law, Law-443 Antitrust Law, Law-445 Labor Law, and Law-446 Employment Law. M.S. courses that will count up to 6 credit hours as electives towards the J.D. degree are: one course from LS-555 Ethics in Business, LS-655 Professional Ethics, and PE-625 Sports Ethics; and one course from PE-610 Psychology of Sport, PE-630 Sport and Society, and PE-670 Sport and the Law,.

Technical Standards for Law School Admissions

A candidate for the J.D. degree must have abilities and skills in five categories: intellectual, communication, behavioral and social, physical, and time management. The Valparaiso University School of Law is committed to enabling its qualified students by any reasonable means or accommodations to complete the course of study leading to the law degree.

- I. Intellectual-Conceptual and Integrative Skills: The candidate must be able to solve complex problems, perform legal analysis and reasoning, and perform legal research.
- II. Communication Skills: A candidate must be able to communicate effectively. A candidate must be able to communicate candidly and civilly with others. A candidate must be able to memorialize and organize information in an accessible form.
- III. Behavioral and Social Attributes: A candidate must possess the emotional health required for substantial utilization of his or her abilities and possess the interpersonal skills to work with others.
- IV. Physical Abilities: A candidate must be able to have reasonably regular and punctual class attendance.
- IV. Time Management: A candidate must be able to meet time deadlines as established.

Questions concerning the Valparaiso University School of Law technical standards should be discussed with the Accommodations Committee, through its intake officer, Director of Student Relations Joseph Baruffi, prior to matriculation into the School of Law.

Essential Eligibility Requirements for the Practice of Law

Valparaiso University School of Law strives to provide a legal education which enables its students to be productive attorneys and members of the bar. The following “Essential Eligibility Requirements for the Practice of Law” serve as additional requirements adopted by the American Bar Association, which may be expected of the students as they sit for the Bar Examination and enter the practice of law. Prospective students should assess, prior to beginning law school, that they will be able to meet these requirements should practicing law be their intention.

(1) The ability to reason, recall complex factual information and integrate that information with complex legal theories; (2) The ability to communicate with clients, lawyers, courts, and others with a high degree of organization and clarity; (3) The ability to use good judgment on behalf of clients and in conducting one's professional business; (4) The ability to conduct oneself with respect for and in accordance with the law; (5) The ability to avoid acts which exhibit disregard for the rights or welfare of others; (6) The ability to comply with the requirements of the Rules of Professional Conduct, applicable state, local, and federal laws, regulations, statutes and any applicable order of a court or tribunal; (7) The ability to act diligently and reliably in fulfilling one's obligations to clients, lawyers, courts, and others; (8) The ability to use honesty and good judgment in financial dealings on behalf of oneself, clients, and others; and (9) The ability to comply with deadlines and time constraints.

An extensive explanation of the American Bar Association eligibility requirements may be found in the ABA publication: Legal Education and Professional Development – An Education Continuum (MacCrate Report) (Robert MacCrate, Chair, 1992). This publication is available through the Law School Registrar.

Course of Study for J.D.

The curriculum of the School of Law provides a comprehensive and intensive study of the foundations of the law, an introduction to the many substantive areas of the law, and the opportunity for advanced study in areas of specific student interest. Four distinct and critical strands of legal education run through the course work, including legal analysis, practical training, perspectives on the law, as well as legal writing and research. Methods of instruction are both traditional and innovative.

Practical training is an integral part of Valparaiso's first-year curriculum, which combines exercises in legal research and writing with an introduction to the practical aspects of the legal system. Upper class offerings in trial advocacy, advanced appellate advocacy, clinical work and extern programs also stress the practical strand, as do various student activities such as the mock trial, moot courts, negotiation, and client counseling competitions. "Perspective" courses provide philosophical, sociological, historical, ethical, and social scientific frameworks within which it is possible to view the substance of the law. The student is introduced to some of these in the first year and this focus continues into the upper-class curriculum. Legal research and writing, introduced as an important element of the first-year curriculum, is continued in the second year with a selection of advanced legal writing courses, in the third year through a seminar requirement, and by means of such activities as Law Review and Moot Court.

First-Year Curriculum

The first-year curriculum, taught in the traditional case method, consists entirely of required courses designed to introduce students to many of the basic substantive areas of the law. The courses that make up the first-year curriculum are Contracts, Criminal Law, Civil Procedure, Legal Writing, Legal Research I and II, Constitutional Law I, Property, and Torts. These core courses provide the foundation upon which the required upper-level topics and elective courses build.

Legal Writing and Research

The skills of legal research and writing are emphasized and developed through all three years of law study. The emphasis in the first year will be on writing and reasoning skills, with the first semester concentrating on the development of analytical skills and predictive writing. Students also learn basic research skills which are then applied to legal writing assignments. The first-year class is divided into small groups of 10-12 students, which enable the legal writing professors and teaching assistant staff to work closely with each student.

During the second semester, students learn persuasive writing techniques and continue to develop analytical skills, with assignments including trial court memoranda, an appellate brief, and an oral argument based on the appellate brief. Students also learn advanced research techniques including LEXIS and Westlaw, and Internet research.

Second-year students are required to take a two or three-credit course, choosing between a selection of writing and research courses offered both in the fall and spring semesters. These courses focus on advanced writing and research skills and refine the writing skills learned in the first year. Because seating is limited in courses numbered 235 to 245, students are limited to one writing course per year, unless given permission by the Vice Dean.

Each third-year student selects one of a variety of seminar offerings. The seminar requirement is designed to serve a number of different functions: 1) promotes interaction among students who often carry a significant amount of the responsibility for leading the course; 2) it affords the opportunity to work closely with a faculty member in a substantive area of interest to the students; 3) it provides an avenue for students to demonstrate at the end of their legal education the fruits of their work in the area of legal writing and research through the completion of a substantial piece of writing; and 4) it offers intensive analyses of relatively narrow areas of the law to supplement the more general education provided by the remainder of the curriculum. The offerings vary from year to year, reflecting current topics of interest to each professor.

Beyond the ten required hours of legal writing, students have the opportunity to hone their legal writing skills under faculty supervision in the Law Clinic, by participation in one of several externships including the Federal Judge Externship, by current representation, through independent research and, in conjunction with other students, through the Law Review, Moot Court Society, and competitions.

Ethics

To further encourage students to examine the philosophical and ethical contexts of the development of law and justice, students are required to take a course in Legal Profession before graduation. As the professional role of the attorney is under constant scrutiny, this course enables students to reflect on their own individual aspirations as well as an opportunity to learn more about themselves and their future role as officers of the court. Students shall also complete all requirements of the professionalism program.

Perspectives

Building on the introduction to the interdisciplinary study of law provided by the first-year required courses, all students take one of thirteen courses, either their second or third year which examine the law and the legal system as a whole. These perspective courses assure that there will be at least one course that invites the student to stand back and observe the process and structure of the legal system itself. The requirement underscores the School of Law's commitment to an inquiry into values and its concern that students not view the legal system as unchangeable and untouched by their own ethical and intellectual analyses. A complete list of the perspective courses can be found on page 46.

Clinical Law Program

Established in 1969, the Law Clinic at Valparaiso serves the community and the legal profession. Through the client representation clinics, third-year students represent low-income clients and citizen groups who would not otherwise have access to the legal system. There are eight types of client clinics within the Law Clinic: Civil Law, Juvenile Law, Domestic Violence, Civil Mediation, Criminal Law, Sports Law, Tax Law, and Post Conviction. See Course Descriptions section for a description of each clinic.

By providing close supervision of students' representation of clients, the Law Clinic promotes the development of skills in advocacy, negotiation, and counseling. It also provides a context for close scrutiny of the questions of professional responsibility which arise in the practice of law.

Current Representation

In addition to the Law Clinic, students have the opportunity to work in connection with legal representation currently being provided by members of the faculty. In this context students receive the same supervision, varied and extensive experience, and individual support that the Law Clinic provides.

Externships

Externship programs provide students with an opportunity to perform legal research and writing and to work closely with attorneys, prosecutors, public defenders, government agencies, legal services, and state and federal judges. There are many externship programs available to upper division students, ranging from 2-3 cr. hrs. See Law 725-838 in the Externship Course Descriptions on the website or contact the Director of Experiential Education in the Career Planning Center with any questions about the program. Open positions are posted in the Strategy each semester and students must have their resume approved by the Career Planning Center to apply for extern positions electronically. Additionally, 10 Externship employers came to the School of Law and participated in over 135 interviews last year. Samples of externship positions include opportunities with the Department of Justice, the Department of Homeland Security, Rush University Medical Center and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

In order to receive academic credit for externships, students must:

- a) Submit a resume (through Strategy) and interview with the field supervisor and/or experiential education director prior to the semester in which they expect to intern (or the year prior in some cases), and
- b) Formally register for the designated externship in the Law Registrar's office, if accepted.

Student externs are limited to taking one externship per semester and are expected to work 45 hours per academic credit. For a three credit externship, a student must work 135 hours or approximately 10 hours per week during the 14 week semester. Individual field or faculty supervisors may require more hours to be worked. A student may not participate in an externship before successful completion of the first year curriculum or 30 credit hours.

Externships are graded on a satisfactory/unsatisfactory (S/U) basis. Students must enroll in more than one credit per externship and they can receive no more than nine (9.0) hours of externship credit in a total of 3 different extern sites during their law school career. Students may not repeat the same or similar setting externship. For instance, a student may not extern for one state judge in the fall and another state judge in a subsequent semester or one county's prosecutor as a 2L and work for another county's prosecutor as a 3L. Academic credit will not be awarded if a student is receiving financial compensation for his or her work. This applies to students receiving the Summer Public Interest Scholarship (SPIS) as well. Individual externships may have limited enrollment.

Academic credit is never extended retroactively for work already undertaken. These same conditions and requirements described above also apply to the summer externship program.

Practicum Component

A 1-2 credit-hour practicum component to existing courses was instituted beginning with the 1998-99 academic year. The practicum is taught by an adjunct in consultation with the faculty member teaching the course. Currently there is a practicum for up to fourteen students as part of the family law course.

Cap on Credits for Courses that do not have Classroom Component

A student may count no more than eighteen (18) non-classroom credits towards the ninety (90) required for graduation. The following subjects are included in this cap:

- 490 Independent Research & Writing (subject to 4 credit cap)
- 492 Law & Society Integrated Project (3 credit cap)
- 661 A&B Current Representation
- 725-850 Externships (also subject to 9 credit cap that includes participation in clinics)*
- 667, 677, 678 Law Review (subject to 4 credit cap, 5 credit cap if Board member)
- 675 Legal Writing Assistant (subject to 4 credit cap)
- 680 Moot Court Competition
  1. 680-A Client Counseling
  2. 680-B Mock Trial Competition
  3. 680-C AAJ Competition (formerly known as ATLA)
  4. 680-D Jessup Moot Court Competition
  5. 690 Moot Court Society

* Although clinic participation is subject to the 9 credit cap, because the clinics have a classroom component, they do not count toward this 18 credit limitation.

Pro Bono Requirement

In order to graduate from the Valparaiso University School of Law, students enrolled in or after Fall of 2009 must complete a minimum of forty (40) hours of pro bono service under the supervision of an attorney. Full-time students must perform the service after completion of their first year and before the last day of classes prior to graduation. Part-time students must perform the service after completion of thirty (30) credit hours and before the last day of classes. Students performing sixty (60) hours of pro bono service will receive "Commendation ___ hours" entered on their transcript. In addition, all students entering the law school in Fall 2009 and beyond will complete a 2-3 page reflective paper and participate in a Pro Bono Plenary Session. NOTE: Students cannot receive compensation (credit or wages) for the hours of service used to satisfy the requirement. First-year law students who have completed their first semester of law studies may receive credit for pro bono work completed and supervised by a full-time faculty member; i.e., New Orleans trip with Professor Carter, to assist with legal clinic matters.

The purpose of the requirement is: to introduce law students to the professional obligation of attorneys, the benefits of public service and the needs of the under-represented in society; to encourage attorneys in this area to fulfill their pro bono obligation and thereby expand legal services to those with limited access to the system; to improve relations between the law school and students and attorney and judges in this community; and to introduce attorneys and judges to our law students, thereby expanding employment opportunities.

In general the intent is to make students available to assist attorneys in the representation contemplated by Rule 6.1 of the Indiana Rules of Professional Conduct, which states:

A lawyer should render public interest legal service. A lawyer may discharge this responsibility by providing professional services at no fee to persons of limited means or to public service or charitable groups or organizations, by service in activities for improving the law, the legal system or the legal profession...

This includes assisting a private attorney on matters handled without a fee or a reduced fee (e.g., court-appointed criminal defense work), assisting an attorney who represents government (e.g., city attorney, prosecutor, etc.), assisting a judge, and assisting an attorney employed by a public interest organization. The activity should be of the nature that we would expect an attorney or law clerk to perform, i.e., not clerical. Students may not count hours in court observation as pro bono unless it pertains to their case preparation work and accounts for less than 20% of total hours worked. SUPERVISION BY AN ATTORNEY IS IMPORTANT TO GUARD AGAINST THE UNAUTHORIZED PRACTICE OF LAW.

As of July 1, 2009, the following procedure will be implemented for the administration of the Pro Bono Program:

- a) Students are required to register with the Registrar's office for course Law 310. This can be done any time after or during the student's pro bono work.
- b) If the student wishes to obtain pro bono credit by working for a private firm or business other than what has been recommended above, the student must obtain approval for their pro bono employer through the Career Planning Center prior to beginning their pro bono assignment. This can be accomplished by submitting the Pro Bono Site Confirmation form found at http://www.valpo.edu/law/probono/forms/probono\_conf.pdf.
- c) Students will complete a Pro Bono Student Log that tracks the amount of pro bono hours performed and a detailed description of work performed, along with the work classification (using KEY on form). (For instance, "performed research on traffic infraction case") Observation hours in court do not count, with the exception of attending court for a case on which a student worked and the hours do not exceed 20% of the total pro bono hours submitted. The Pro Bono Student Log can be found at http://www.valpo.edu/law/probono/forms/probono\_studentlog.pdf.
- d) Supervising Attorneys will complete a Supervisor's Report on the work performed and will confirm the total hours of pro bono work performed. The Supervisor's Report can be found at http://www.valpo.edu/law/probono/forms/probono\_supervisor.pdf.
- e) The Pro Bono Student Log and Supervisor's Report will be submitted to the Assistant Registrar's Office, room 214, for processing. The Site Confirmation form should be included in the case of working for a private attorney or corporation.
- f) Students must keep in mind if one is registered for pro bono during the semester and the work is not completed before the last day of classes, the student will receive an "IP – In Progress" on their grade transcript. The "IP" will be removed once the pro bono work is completed and the completed forms are submitted to the Assistant Registrar.

Academic Success Program

The goal of the Academic Success Program (ASP) is to facilitate academic excellence by easing the transition to law school. The program provides all first-year students with the opportunity to learn the skills necessary to be a successful law student. Since these skills transcend any one particular course, the program does not provide a substantive review of course material. Specific skills covered in the program include reading and briefing cases; note-taking; time and stress management; course outlining; and taking final exams.

There are three components of ASP: the summer program that is limited to 40 first-year students, the fall workshop series that is open to all students, and the Legal Method course taught in the spring semester which is limited to first-year students on academic probation.

The summer program and fall workshop series provide students with a preview of what is expected of law students and thereby relieve some of the typical anxiety experienced in the first year of law school. The summer program requires that students admitted to the fall 1L class complete an application and submit it to the Law Admissions office.

Academic Program Information

Registration Procedures

New first-year students are registered for their fall and spring courses by the Law Registrar during the summer before classes begin. Returning students register in early April for both the fall and spring semesters via DataVU web registration. Registration information is made available one week before registration in April.

Responsibility Assumed by Registration

By registering, the student accepts the terms and conditions, financial and otherwise, which have been described in these announcements. In addition, every new student and every student who has not been registered during the previous sixteen-month period must submit to the University Medical Center a report of his or her medical history, physical examination, and required immunizations.

At the beginning of each semester, returning law students must confirm their enrollment at the School of Law. Enrollment confirmation is completed via DataVU, a web-based program. Confirmation of enrollment can be accessed on DataVU approximately one week prior to the first day of classes. Confirmation of enrollment must be completed by 5:00 p.m. on the second day of classes. Failure to verify enrollment on DataVU in a timely manner necessitates a $40.00 late fee. This process does not pertain to new 1L students for their first semester. New 1L students will confirm their enrollment during the Orientation process.

Change of Classes: Drop/Add/Withdrawal

During the first five days of classes each semester, a student may change his or her schedule of classes through the drop/add process. There is no adjustment in the tuition for changes of registration during the drop/add period other than withdrawal from the University. After the deadline for drop/add, students may not add courses, change courses from audit to credit or credit to audit, change the number of credit hours for which a course is taken, or engage or reverse the S/U option.

A student who wishes to withdraw from a course or courses after the deadline for drop/add will be permitted to do so only with the approval of the instructor(s) concerned and the Vice Dean, provided the reduction in course load does not change the student's full-time or part-time status. Granted approval, students may withdraw from a course or courses with a grade of W up to the end of the ninth week of the semester. The date of withdrawal from a course with the grade of W is published in the academic calendar.

Authorized withdrawals are processed through the Registrar's office. A student who abandons a course for which he or she has registered and does not execute the proper withdrawal procedure will receive a grade of F for that course for the semester.

Any request for changes in enrollment after the deadline for drop/add must be requested in writing on forms available in the office of the Law Registrar. The course number and title of the course from which a student withdraws after the deadline for drop/add will appear on the official transcript with a grade of W.

Attendance Policy and Procedures

Regular and punctual attendance is necessary to satisfy ABA residency and class hour requirements. Each student is expected to attend every class session for each course for which he or she is enrolled. Professors will enforce the attendance policy and must announce the method of enforcement at least one week prior to its imposition. Any student who does not comply with ABA attendance requirements is subject to administrative withdrawal. When absence is unavoidable, it is the responsibility of the student to explain to the instructor(s) the reason(s) for the absence and to learn what make-up work may be required. Whenever possible, the student should provide advance notice of absences by notifying the instructor(s). When an emergency situation occurs that prevents a student from contacting an instructor, the student should contact either the Law Registrar or the Vice Dean so that instructors can be notified.

A.B.A. Work Rule

Standard 304 (f) of the American Bar Association rules governing educational programs states that a student may not engage in employment for more than 20 hours per week in any semester in which the student is enrolled in 12 class hours or more. This policy is enforced by requiring full-time students to sign a form indicating they have read the above statement and agree to comply with the rule.

Class Cancellations Due to Weather

The School of Law is rarely closed due to weather conditions. However, should ice or snow prevent classes from being held, this information will be announced through the Office of the University President. The President of the University, or the Provost in his absence, decides whether or not the University's classes and co-curricular activities will be canceled due to inclement weather. In so doing, he confers with each vice president and obtains the most recent available weather reports. When the decision is made, he will ask the University's Director of Public Relations to contact the following media: WVUR (95.1 FM), WLJE (Indiana 105), and WAKE (1550 AM) in Valparaiso; WXRD in Crown Point; WZVN in Lowell; WJOB in Gary; WIMS (1420 AM), and WEFM (95.9 FM) in Michigan City; WLOI (1540 AM), and WCOE (96.7 FM) in LaPorte; WKVI (99.3 FM and 1520 AM) in Knox; WBBM (780 AM), and WGN (720 AM), and all television stations in Chicago. It should always be assumed that the University will continue to be in session unless definitive information to the contrary has been communicated to responsible media.

Course Load

All full-time, first-year students are required to complete the first-year curriculum during the first year of study. Full-time second- and third-year students must carry a minimum of twelve (12.0) credit hours in each semester and may not, except as indicated below, register for more than seventeen (17.0) credit hours in any semester.

A second- or third-year student who wants to take more than seventeen (17.0) credit hours must receive the written permission of the Vice Dean prior to registration. The Vice Dean has authority to approve up to 18 credit hours.

An exception to this rule is that a second- or third-year student who has a cumulative GPA of 2.500 or greater may register for eighteen (18.0) credit hours in any given semester. Full-time students wanting to take fewer than the minimum number of hours may do so only with the permission of the Faculty Petitions Committee. (See sections on Attendance in this Bulletin.) Part-time students must take from five (5.0) to eleven (11.0) credit hours during each regular semester and cannot take more than seven (7.0) credit hours in a summer session. (Note that a part-time student may not enroll in a summer session between the first and second year except by express permission of the instructor and the Vice Dean. Forms to request permission are available online at <http://www.valpo.edu/law/registrar/forms/parttimeadcourse.pdf>. Part-time students may convert to full-time status with the approval of the Vice Dean and completion of the appropriate form found at <http://www.valpo.edu/law/registrar/forms/statuschange.pdf>.)

Course Work at Other Approved Law Schools

Credits earned at other ABA-accredited or foreign law schools, including summer sessions, will be counted as elective hours only, and only with the advance approval of the Vice Dean. No transfer credit may be used to fulfill courses required for the VU degree unless permission is granted expressly by the Vice Dean. Further, no more than 30 transfer credits may be applied to the VU degree, nor may credits earned in a "conditional" summer program be counted. Courses taken at other law schools will not fulfill prerequisites for courses offered at the School of Law without advance approval of the Vice Dean. No more than seven (7.0) hours of summer school work may be transferred each summer.

An equivalent grade of 2.0 (C) or better must be obtained in each course taken at another law school in order for credit to be accepted. Grades earned at other law schools will not be calculated into the student's GPA. Students who intend to take courses at another law school must first apply for approval by submitting the proper form which is available at <http://www.valpo.edu/law/registrar/forms/Transfercredit.pdf>. It is the responsibility of the student requesting transfer credit from another law school to have an official transcript forwarded from that school to the Registrar after courses are completed and grades are available. No credit will be granted without an official transcript.

Summer Session on Campus

The School of Law offers an on-campus summer session for which students may register for a maximum of 7.0 credit hours. The on-campus session is administered through the Registrar's Office and usually begins the third or fourth week in May and extends for a seven-week period, ending by mid-July. Final exams are scheduled during the following week. The summer session is open to all registered students at the School of Law, and credit received may be counted toward all requirements of the School of Law.

Summer Sessions Abroad

The Study Abroad Program provides students with a unique addition to their legal education. Studying abroad exposes students to the legal and judicial systems of other countries, gives the students an important comparative perspective for examining and understanding the U.S. legal system, and prepares them for a career in an increasingly global business and legal environment.

Cambridge/London - Courses for this program are taught by School of Law professors, alumni, and guest lecturers from the host country. The program is administered by the School of Law's Director of International Studies with assistance from the Registrar's Office. The Cambridge program usually extends from mid-June to late July. The program begins with the first week in London followed by five weeks in Cambridge. The exact dates for this program vary from year to year. In previous years, U.S. Supreme Court Justices Antonin Scalia, Ruth Bader Ginsburg, William F. Rehnquist and Clarence Thomas have participated as faculty members.

Chile/Argentina - This is an International Human Rights program in Buenos Aires; Valparaiso, Chile; and Santiago that presents important perspectives regarding human rights issues, efforts towards legal reform, and steps toward reconciliation. You will visit historical sites, governmental and legal institutions, meet officials from human rights organizations, and participate in cultural activities. Partner institutions are Universidad de Valparaiso, Universidad del Salvador, Universidad de Los Andes, and Universidad Austral. This program is administered by the School of Law's Director of International Studies. Application to the program is made to the Law Registrar.

Transcripts

School of Law academic transcripts are available at the University Registrar's Office, Kretzmann Hall. A five dollar ($5.00) fee is charged for each official transcript. No transcript of a student's record is released until the student has met in full all obligations to the University, financial or otherwise. A transcript request form can be found at: <http://www.valpo.edu/registrar/assets/pdfs/transreq.pdf>. Your signature is required for all transcript requests.

Undergraduate/Graduate Course Work at Valparaiso University

Law students who wish to apply to take courses in the graduate or undergraduate programs at Valparaiso University must apply and register to do so through the Office of Graduate Studies. Students enrolled in the full-time law program may take up to a cumulative total of 6 credits in the graduate or undergraduate division, excluding summer sessions, at no additional charge above the full-time law tuition.

Students may register for undergraduate courses offered by the University in colleges other than the School of Law if space is available, but only with the permission of the department chairperson. Such courses taken either for credit or audit must be so designated at the time of registration. Such courses will not be counted toward the law degree, will not be credited to the student's course load, residency, or hours for graduation requirements and will not be included in the student's cumulative average. If a student wishes to count a non-School of Law course toward the J.D. degree, a request must be made by petition to the Faculty Petitions Committee prior to enrollment in such course. Grades earned will not be calculated into the J.D. grade point average. Full-time students (12 or more credit hours per semester) will not be charged additional tuition for course work in other colleges (with the exception of music instruction courses); however, tuition is charged for course work in the summer session.

Law students taking graduate or undergraduate credits during the fall or spring semester above the cumulative total of 6 credits will be charged the per-credit graduate tuition rate for the specific program for each additional credit. Exceptions to the 6-credit limit may be granted by the Dean of the Graduate Division. Law students taking courses in the graduate or undergraduate programs during either of the summer sessions will be charged the per-credit graduate tuition for the specific program for each course. If they are concurrently taking law courses in the summer, law students will be charged the law tuition rate for each law course.

Students enrolled in the part-time law program who wishes to concurrently take graduate or undergraduate courses during the fall or spring semesters will be charged the law tuition rate for law courses, and graduate tuition for the specific program for other courses.

Consistent with the general policy regarding law students, dual degree J.D./M.A. and J.D./M.S. students may take up to a cumulative total of 6 credits in the graduate division during either the fall or spring semesters at no additional charge above the full-time law tuition. Course work beyond 6 credits in the Graduate Division is assessed at the graduate tuition rate. Such students may not carry a course load of more than 18 credits of combined law and graduate coursework in any fall or spring semester.

Students in the J.D./M.B.A. program are assessed the School of Law tuition for all coursework applied to either the J.D. or the M.B.A. degree.

Registration information and forms are available from the Graduate Office located in Kretzmann Hall. If a student decides to discontinue the course, it is necessary to formally withdraw from the course by completing a drop card from the University Registrar's Office.

Independent Study

Occasionally, students develop an interest in an area of the law for which there is no separate course in the curriculum. For this reason, the School of Law has a program of independent study listed as Law 490 Independent Reading and Research. Students may register for this course for 1-3 credit hours after developing a specific project proposal. There is a 4-credit maximum of independent study allowed during a law student's career, with a maximum of 3 credit hours in any one semester, excluding the summer session. For special circumstances and with the Vice Dean's approval, students can register for 4 credit hours of independent student during a summer session.

Students interested in an independent study must write a brief description of the project proposal on a form available online on the Registrar's web page and have it approved by signatures of the supervising faculty member and the Vice Dean. The student's proposal should include the number of credit hours to be earned and the manner in which the paper will be graded, either by letter grade or satisfactory/unsatisfactory (S/U). A student on academic probation must elect the latter option. Registration for Law 490 is not official until the approved form is on file in the Registrar's office. Registration for this course may not be used to satisfy the seminar requirement.

Auditing of Courses

Full or part-time students are permitted to audit courses at the School of Law with the permission of the instructor and the Vice Dean if space is available and there is no wait list for the course. Students are not permitted to audit course and later take that same course for credit unless the Vice Dean gives them advance permission to do so based on special circumstances.

Registration for audit requires completion of an audit card which is available in the Registrar's office. Audits must be so designated at the time of registration and may not be exchanged for any other grade designation after the drop/add period ends.

Criteria for the successful auditing of a course are set by the individual faculty members, but the auditor must attend at least three-fourths (75%) of the class meetings. This attendance must be verified, based upon the Honor System, by the student to the Registrar before the beginning of semester examinations. Audits not verified by students are expunged from the record.

No additional fee is charged auditors who pay for enrollment in the School of Law. Auditors are not permitted to take final examinations in courses taken for audit. No credit is received for auditing a course, and audited courses are not counted toward the student's required load in any given term or toward the number of hours required for residence or graduation. An auditor who complies with these regulations will have audited courses recorded on his or her transcript with the grade of "AU", audit.

Non degree-seeking individuals may audit courses with the approval of the Vice Dean. Courses cannot be audited for credit. Non-degree auditors must pay the part-time per credit tuition and fees.

Residency Requirements

To be eligible for graduation from the School of Law, a student must comply with the following requirements of the American Bar Association. ABA Standard 304 (c) states, "A law school shall require that the course of study for the J.D. degree be completed no earlier than 24 months and no later than 84 months after a student has commenced law study at the law school or a law school from which the school has accepted transfer credit."

Full-time students must be in residence at the School of Law during their last two full-time semesters (exclusive of summer session). For purposes of this rule, students participating in the School of Law externships are considered as being in residence. Part-time students must be in residence at the School of Law for the last thirty (30.0) hours of academic credit earned.

Accelerated J.D. Program

Students are eligible to graduate within two-and-one-half (2.5) years if the following conditions are met:

- 1) Students have been enrolled in five regular full-time semesters plus at least one qualifying summer session, all in residence (Valparaiso University School of Law Summer Study Abroad Programs count as in residence).
- 2) Full-time semesters range from 12-17 credit hours. Students with a cumulative GPA of 2.500 or better may take 18 hours in semesters where overloads are permissible; otherwise overloads are only available through advance permission of the Vice Dean.
- 3) Summer sessions have a maximum credit-hour load of 7 hours.
- 4) All students must pass a minimum of 90 hours with at least a 2.000 cumulative grade point average.
- 5) An Application for Accelerated J.D. Program has been completed. This form can be found at <http://www.valpo.edu/law/registrar/forms/acceleratedjd.pdf>.

Honors Program

Following completion of the first semester curriculum, students who display excellent credentials (class rank, leadership ability, writing ability, professionalism, and effectiveness in representing the law school) will be invited to the Honors Program. All Honors Program candidates must interview for the program. The program is limited to 30-35 students per year.

Beginning with the entering Fall 2007 class, the Honors Program will consist of the following courses/sections:

Third semester	TBA	A required 2L course honors section
After 30 credit hours	TBA	A 3-credit externship or clinic (approved by honors director)
Fifth semester	TBA	Honors Seminar section

Beginning with the entering Class of 2011, Honors Program students must maintain a cumulative GPA of 3.2, measured at the end of each academic year. Summer course work is excluded in determining whether the GPA requirement is satisfied.

Part-Time Program

Admission standards for the part-time program are the same as for the full-time program. The basic program extends over a period of five years, with graduation in May of the fifth year. However, depending upon courses offered, by enrolling in the maximum number of hours after the completion of the first-year required curriculum, i.e., eleven (11.0) credit hours each subsequent semester and seven (7.0) credit hours each subsequent summer session, a part-time student could graduate at the end of the summer session following the fourth year. Further, a student must enroll in a minimum of 6 credits in the fall and spring semesters. See also Residence Requirement.

All part-time students must complete 90 credit hours, including all required courses. The first-year part-time curriculum includes Civil Procedure, Legal Writing, and Legal Research I in the fall semester; Property, Legal Writing, and Legal Research II in the spring semester. The second-year part-time curriculum includes Criminal Law, Contracts, Constitutional Law I, and Torts. Unless otherwise indicated, all requirements for full-time students apply to part-time students.

Any part-time student may take one summer course, and any such student with a cumulative GPA of 2.250 or higher may take summer courses up to 7 credit hours after completion of the first two semesters of residency with the permission of the instructor and the Vice Dean. The primary consideration will be whether the courses previously taken provide a sufficient background for the summer course. The "Request to Take Additional Summer Credits" application form can be found at the Registrar's web site, www.valpo.edu/law/registrar.

During the second year of part-time study, a part-time student with a cumulative GPA of 2.250 or higher may take up to two additional courses in each semester provided the student's course load does not exceed eleven (11.0) credit hours per semester. Permission must be granted by the instructor and the Vice Dean. The primary consideration will be whether the courses previously taken provide a sufficient background for the additional course, but the student's outside commitments also will be considered. The "Part-time Request to Take an Additional Course" form is available online at www.valpo.edu/law/registrar.

After completion of the second semester of part-time study, a part-time student with a cumulative GPA of 2.50 (includes Fall and Spring grades) may transfer to the full-time program with the approval of the Vice Dean. After completion of thirty credit hours or more a part-time student may transfer to the full-time program with the approval of the Vice Dean. Part-time students will find the "Change in Status Form" online at www.valpo.edu/law/academics/registrar.

Full-time students seeking to transfer to the part-time program must petition and gain the approval of the Petitions and Readmissions Committee. Action taken by this committee is final, with no appeal to the faculty.

Part-time students are required to take Law 210 Evidence, Law 220 Legal Profession, Law 250 Constitutional Law II, and Law 203 Business Associations before attaining more than 60 credit hours. Also, part-time students must take an advanced writing course after completion of the first-year writing courses and before more than sixty (60.0) credit hours.

Honor Code System

As future members of the legal profession, students at the School of Law bear a special responsibility to insist upon and to maintain high standards of integrity. Accordingly, the Valparaiso University School of Law Honor Code has been adopted to promote and insure the opportunity of each student to pursue a legal education to the best of his or her ability in an atmosphere of trust and mutual respect. The Honor Code relies on each individual student for its operation and enforcement, recognizing that the achievement of its goals is ultimately dependent on the integrity of each student. The Honor Code applies to all students of the School of Law. It contains a number of canons which are general principles representing objectives toward which every Valparaiso law student should strive. The Code also contains a listing of violations which can subject students to discipline in accordance with the procedures set forth in the Code.

To affirm compliance with the Honor Code, all students are required to sign the Honor Code Pledge on work submitted for academic credit. The Honor Code Pledge reads as follows: "I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid." The pledge must be signed either by the use of the secret examination number or, in the instance where anonymous grading is not required, by the student's name.

The text of the Honor Code is available at the end of this bulletin. Each student is expected to read the Code in full and become familiar with the canons and listing of violations. All notices, complaints or information relating to a possible violation by a law student shall be presented to the Vice Dean for the School of Law in person or in writing signed by the student.

Examinations

Most law courses have a final examination at the end of the semester which determines the course grade. However, some professors may administer exams at certain intervals during the semester/session or the grade may be determined by a combination of oral presentation and written assignments. Depending on the academic calendar, one day is designated as a reading period between the last day of instruction and the beginning of examinations. Usually 8-9 days are devoted to examinations each semester (fewer for summer session). The semester examinations are conducted according to a published schedule and regulations approved by the faculty. Students are expected to take their examinations at the designated time. A student's failure to sit for a scheduled examination, without a prior release from the Vice Dean or the Law Registrar, will result in no credit given for the exam.

Where illness, accident or an act of God intervenes to prevent a student from taking an exam at the scheduled time, it is the responsibility of the student to report such facts or to cause them to be reported at the earliest time physically possible to the Vice Dean or to the Law Registrar. DO NOT CONSULT THE PROFESSOR! It will be determined, after consultation, whether the equities of the matter permit either the rescheduling of the examination or the granting of any other relief from the rule. All excused exams require verification. Delayed exams must be taken as soon as possible and no later than two weeks after the scheduled exam period.

Exam Procedure and Regulations

The following regulations apply to all exams. See the exam schedule at <http://www.valpo.edu/law/registrar/schedules.php> for dates and times of scheduled exams.

Exam Collection Procedure: The final collection of exams will take place at the front of each classroom. If you plan to take the entire time allotted for an exam, it is suggested that you sit in the back of the classroom to avoid any distractions during collection. You are responsible for placing your exam number on each bluebook, Honor Pledge on the first bluebook and numbering the bluebooks, i.e., 1 of 3, 2 of 3, 3 of 3, etc. Printed exam questions should be placed inside the bluebooks (unless instructed otherwise by the administrator). Scratch sheets (used and not used) should be returned. If you complete your exam prior to the 10-minute warning, the proctor on duty at the exam table in the Atrium will collect your exam. Writing after time has been called for an exam is a violation of the Honor Code. If you need to write the Honor Pledge on your exam following the exam time, please do so at the collection box. Emailed and faxed answers to exams are not acceptable. All exams must be delivered in person.

Exceptions to the Examination Schedule: Scheduled exams must be taken at the day and time assigned! Exceptions are made only for a medical emergency of which the Vice Dean or Law Registrar is notified (medical verification required), or in the case of two exams scheduled for the same day. Do not ask your professor to be excused from a scheduled exam (it violates your anonymity). Makeup exams must be taken as soon as possible and no later than two weeks after the exam period.

Special Accommodations (Not Exceptions): Students who have applied for special exam accommodations must report to the assistant registrar, on the designated date and time to pick up their exam. Please return your signed accommodations form to the assistant registrar prior to the exam period.

Exam Modifications for International Students: Exam modifications are available to international students for which the primary instruction has been in English. For in-class final examinations, one hour of additional time and use of an English translation dictionary will be afforded. Additional time is not afforded for take-home type exams. International students who qualify for exam modifications must report to the assistant registrar, on the designated date and time to pick up their exam.

Exam Rooms: The examination is to be written in the classroom where it is scheduled to be given (with the exception of special accommodations). No pagers, cell phones, briefcases, large purses, book bags, electronic devices or headsets are allowed. If you want to type your exam you must apply to use ExamSoft. If you want to take your essay exams on ExamSoft you must register with both the ExamSoft website and ExamSoft Administrator Karen Koelemeyer before the designated deadlines. ExamSoft exams will be administered along with students handwriting the exam in the exam room.

Bluebooks/Exam Numbers: All bluebooks used for exams will be provided by the Registrar's Office with date stamped on the front cover. You will receive two marked bluebooks. Additional bluebooks will be available in the exam room. Extra pens and pencils will be available at the Exam Center table. Unused bluebooks and all used and unused scratch paper must be returned with your completed exam. Please number your bluebooks in the order in which they are written (i.e., Book 1 of 2, Book 2 of 2, etc.).

Exam numbers are available in the Registrar's office (at the Exam Center table during the exam period) and online on the Grade Point Average by Term screen in DataVU. Guard your exam number! Write the number in a secret place in your wallet so you do not forget it and do not share your number with others. Your exam number label should be affixed to the bluebook cover beneath the handwritten Honor Pledge.

HONOR PLEDGE: "I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid."

Open Book/Closed Book Exams: Each professor will tell you before classes end whether or not you may use your texts, notes and outlines during the examination. If the exam is open book, you may take into the exam room those materials approved by the professor. If the exam is closed, you may take only your exam labels and pen(s); everything else should be left out of the exam room. Pagers, cell phones (whether 'on' or 'off'), briefcases, large purses, book bags, electronic devices and headsets are never allowed.

Leaving The Exam Room During An Examination: You may leave the exam room only to use the restroom or if you are ill. If you have questions regarding a possible typographical error please see the proctor at the exam table in the Atrium. The proctor will contact your instructor and approach the entire class if a typographical error is on the exam. If you leave the exam room, leave your bluebook in the exam room, closed and face down on the desk. If you become ill during the exam, go immediately to the Exam Center table (do not go to the professor!)

Caution When Discussing Exams: After a scheduled exam has ended, be cautious in discussing it with your professor or a fellow student. Please be certain any student who may have not taken the exam is not present. (Because of the anonymous system used to protect professors and students from violations of the exam process, frequently only the Vice Dean and Law Registrar know which students have not taken a scheduled exam.)

Exam Number System

To insure anonymity and confidentiality in the grading process, written examination bluebooks are signed by a secret examination number instead of the student's name, social security number, or any other identifying mark before being turned in.

Random numbers are assigned by computer to each registered student for each of the grading periods (fall, spring, and summer). No set or series of numbers is assigned to any class or group within the student body. Students are required to use the exam number on bluebooks or papers to be graded. No other identifying mark, such as the social security number, the student ID number or the student's name may be used. (The exceptions are the seminars, writing courses and independent reading and research papers.) When bluebooks are required, they are provided by the School of Law. When more than one bluebook is used, the books must be marked 1 of 3, 2 of 3, 3 of 3, etc., and an exam number label (or legibly written exam number) must appear on the cover of each additional bluebook.

The code-list of students' names and exam numbers is kept by the Registrar. Faculty and administrative deans may not have access to the code-list until after grades are submitted. Students are responsible for maintaining the confidentiality of their exam numbers. Since only one number is assigned each semester, students who lose or disclose their exam numbers assume the risk of the numbers becoming public knowledge.

Personal Computers and Exams

Personal computers may be used to write examinations using the ExamSoft program (Windows-compatible only). Interested students must make application to Karen Koelemeyer, Administrator of Academic Services, at least 3 weeks in advance of the start of exams.

Personal computers, tape recorders, or any equipment with memory capacity may be used to take notes or record classes only with the permission of the instructor.

Withdrawal from the School of Law

A student who withdraws from the school for the remainder of a semester must do so before the last day of instruction in order to receive grades of W on the official transcript. A withdrawal form from the Registrar's office must be signed by various offices and the Student Financial Planning Office. The University Registrar will authorize such withdrawal and the return of such fees as are refundable.

A student who withdraws from the School of Law without authorization is not entitled to refunds of any kind, and the instructor of each subject in which the student is enrolled is required to report a final grade of F for the official transcript. A student who withdraws after the last day of instruction in the semester will be assigned grades of F in each course in which s/he was enrolled.

A student who withdraws from the School of Law has no automatic right to return unless authorized to return by the Vice Dean. However, under special extenuating circumstances, a student in good standing may request a leave of absence, which will provide an automatic right to return within a specified period of time. Permission for a leave of absence must be granted in writing by the Vice Dean prior to the first day of classes for the semester. A copy of the form stating the terms of the leave of absence is kept in the student's academic file.

A student who returns to the School of Law after an absence of two or more years may no longer be a candidate for a degree on the basis of the Bulletin under which the student first entered the University but must fulfill for graduation all the requirements and provisions of the Bulletin of the year in which the student re-enters the University.

Grading System and Quality Points

Valparaiso University School of Law uses letter grades as numerical grades on a 4.0 scale.

Grade Quality	Pts.
A	=	4.0	A	=	Excellent
A-	=	3.7	B	=	Good
B+	=	3.3	C	=	Average
B	=	3.0	D	=	Poor
B-	=	2.7	F	=	Failure
C+	=	2.3	I	=	Incomplete
C	=	2.0	IP	=	In Progress
C-	=	1.7	S	=	Satisfactory
D+	=	1.3	U	=	Unsatisfactory
D	=	1.0	W	=	Authorized Withdrawal
D-	=	0.7	AW	=	Administrative Withdrawal
*F	=	0.0

** Course Honors

*The grade of F with its corresponding quality points of 0.0 per credit hour indicates that the student has not fulfilled adequately the objectives and requirements of the course, including regular attendance. The grade of F is computed into the student's GPA. It counts for hours attempted, but it does not count for hours earned. A student who has failed a course may not have that failure expunged from the record by retaking the course.

A student who has failed a required course must retake the course unless his or her petition for waiver is granted by the Petitions and Readmissions Committee. The Petitions and Readmissions Committee will apply the following criteria: 1) whether the student's exam performance was affected by substantial extraneous factors, 2) whether the student has acquired sufficient familiarity with the subject matter of the course so that requiring a retake would be educationally unsound, and 3) the recommendation of the instructor. This policy shall not be applicable to the student who has failed the first semester of a required two-semester continuing course if such student received a passing grade in the second semester, i.e., Law 150 Constitutional Law I and Law 250 Constitutional Law II.

The student who repeats a course in which he or she has received a grade of F may count the hours repeated as earned, and the grade earned will be counted in the GPA. The first grade continues to be calculated in the GPA. Students may not repeat courses when a grade of D- or higher has been earned.

**Students who receive course honors have the grade designation H appear before the grade (i.e., HA for honors A or HA- for honors A-).

I. Incomplete. The grade "I" may, at the discretion of the instructor, be given to a student whose completed work in a course indicates the probability of the student's passing the course but who has yet to complete a segment of the assigned work of the course because of circumstances beyond the student's control. An I (Incomplete) received in one semester or summer session must be removed before the first day of the official examination period of the next succeeding semester or it will automatically become a grade of F. The student's deadline for submitting the outstanding work to the instructor shall be one full week prior to that date, unless the professor shall specify an earlier due date.

IP. In Progress. Courses which extend beyond one semester (i.e., a full-year seminar or an extended Pro Bono externship) are assigned IP (in progress) until the grade designation has been assigned at the following semester's grading period.

S/U. Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. Courses which are graded S/U are so designated in the Course Descriptions Section. A grade of "S", which is the equivalent of C or better on the grading scale, counts toward hours attempted and hours earned, but is not calculated into the GPA. A grade of "U", which is the equivalent of C- or lower, counts toward hours attempted but is not included in hours earned and is not calculated into the GPA. Courses in which a grade of S or U is received appear on the official transcript and may not be expunged.

Additionally, third-year full-time students have the option of taking one elective course per semester, for a combined total of not more than six (6.0) credit hours for the year, for a grade of S or U in courses offered which are otherwise graded by letter grade.

Part-time students may exercise this option after the completion of sixty (60.0) credit hours provided the option is sought for no more than one course per semester and for no more than six (6.0) credit hours in total. The S/U option is not available for students enrolled in a dual degree program. This option must be exercised through the Registrar's office at the time of registration and may not be changed after the deadline for drop/add. Students who exercise the S/U option for an otherwise letter-graded course are not permitted to know their actual test or course work grade which, if C or above, is translated into an S, or if C- or below, is translated into a U when grades are recorded officially. Faculty members do not know which students have opted to take a letter graded course as S/U (pass/fail).

All letter-graded skills courses (including pretrial skills, drafting courses, advanced legal research, advanced appellate advocacy, trial practice I and II, and all clinics) are exempt from the 3L option to elect to take these classes as pass/fail courses. When these courses are letter-graded and offered as electives, 3L students will not be allowed to convert them to pass/fail courses.

A third-year student already enrolled in more than 3 hours of S/U courses (i.e. Externships, Law Review, Current Representation, Trial Practice II, and Moot Court Competition) in any semester may not exercise the S/U option for any graded course. Further, any students enrolled in Law 490 Independent Reading and Research under S/U, or registered for more than 3 credits of Externship are precluded from exercising the S/U option during the same semester.

W. An Authorized Withdrawal. (See Change of Classes.) This mark carries no credit.

AW. An Administrative Withdrawal. Any student who does not comply with ABA attendance requirements is subject to administrative withdrawal. This mark carries no credit.

Grade Point Averages

At the end of each grading period, a semester average and a cumulative average are calculated for each enrolled student. The cumulative GPA is used to establish class rank which customarily changes each semester (NOT summer sessions) as the GPA fluctuates. Grades received in courses graded S/U are not included in the calculation of either the semester or the cumulative averages; neither are transfer credits nor grades earned in non-law school Valparaiso University courses.

Class Rank

Full-time students are ranked with their class according to their cumulative GPA at the end of the fall and spring semesters (but NOT the summer session). Summer session grades are included in the following semester's calculation of class rank except for those who complete their degree requirements at the end of the summer session. After each May graduation, an official rank in class is assigned. Summer graduates are ranked with the preceding May class. Students who complete their degree requirements in December are given an equivalency ranking based on the previous May's class. Although part-time and transfer students are not officially ranked until their final semester, they are given an unofficial rank equivalency according to their cumulative GPA based on their current class level. Part-time and transfer students are ranked with full-time students at graduation.

Honors in Scholarship

Course Honors: Students who receive course honors have the grade designation H appear before the grade on the academic transcript (i.e., HA for honors A or HA- for honors A-).

Semester Honors: A full-time student who achieves a semester average of 3.500 or higher in any semester will be awarded semester honors, provided that the student has received no grades of I or U at the official end of the semester concerned and was registered for at least twelve (12.0) credit hours of work for the semester. This rule applies to part-time students who are registered for at least seven (7.0) credit hours of work for a given semester.

Graduation with Honors: The Valparaiso University School of Law awards its degrees with special honors to full-time law students according to the following scheme: those graduating in the top 20% of the class receive the degree cum laude; those in the top 11% receive the degree magna cum laude; those in the top 3% receive the degree summa cum laude. Honors for part-time students are based on grade-point equivalency with full-time honorees.

Retention and Probation

If at the time spring semester grades are received by the Registrar a student is enrolled in any summer school program of the Valparaiso University School of Law, such student's cumulative GPA for retention purposes shall be calculated after final grades for such summer session are received. A summer session does not equal a semester. Official rankings will not be re-calculated at the end of the summer session.

Cumulative Grade Point Average Requirement, Full-Time Students

Full-time students will be dismissed due to academic deficiency as follows:

- after first semester below 1.30
- after second semester below 1.85
- after third semester and each subsequent semester below 2.00

In addition, any full-time student whose cumulative GPA is below 2.00 is placed on academic probation. Any student who is on probation but not dismissed is advised of the consequences of probation and that such probationary status is cause for the re-evaluation of motivation and/or study habits. In addition, any student whose GPA for any semester falls below 1.85 shall be placed on academic probation regardless of such student's cumulative GPA.

Cumulative Grade Point Average Requirement, Part-Time Students

Part-time students will be dismissed due to academic deficiency as follows:

- after 15 hours attempted below 1.30
- after 30 hours attempted below 1.85
- after 45 hours attempted below 2.00

In addition, any part-time student whose cumulative GPA falls below 2.000 at any time following a grading period shall be placed on probation and advised thereof. In addition, any student whose GPA for any semester falls below 1.85 shall be placed on academic probation regardless of such student's cumulative GPA.

Mandatory Academic Support Participation

Any first-year student (full or part-time) who attains lower than a 2.00 GPA for his or her fall semester will add the course Law 182, Legal Method and drop Law 150 Constitutional Law I for the Spring semester. The ASP Director will conduct the course.

Cumulative Grade Point Average Requirement, LL.M. Students

After the first semester, students with less than a 2.00 GPA will be placed on academic probation. Further after 12 credit hours attempted, any student with less than a 1.85 GPA will be dropped from the program. A student who has been dropped from the program may petition for readmission if their GPA is 1.70 or above. After 24 credit hours the cumulative GPA must be 2.00 in order to receive a degree.

Consequences of Probation

While on probation, a student cannot participate in any way (including try-outs, entry competitions, etc.) in any co-curricular program, hold office in any student organization recognized by the University or the School of Law, serve as student representative at faculty meetings or on faculty committees, or work at the School or University through work-study without the prior written approval of the Vice Dean.

Petitions and Readmission

Any student who seeks relief from any School of Law academic regulation must, unless otherwise noted, file a petition with the Petitions and Readmission Committee. A student who is dismissed from the School for academic reasons may petition for readmission. No petition for readmission will be entertained if a student's GPA is 0.30 below the pertinent retention standard. The Petitions and Readmission Committee consists of four members (three faculty members and one student).

Petitions for Readmission

Petitioners for readmission may not seek an independent interview with members of the Petitions and Readmissions Committee on matters associated with a pending petition. Those concerned may contact the Office of the Vice Dean for advice and counsel about the petitioning process. The petition for readmission shall include a statement of extraordinary and compelling circumstances which caused the petitioner's failure to meet the academic standards of the School of Law while enrolled and shall also include such other matters as the Committee may require by its rules. A quorum of the Committee shall consist of three members. Any time the student representative is absent from a Committee meeting at which a petition is to be considered, the petitioner shall be given the option to postpone the consideration of his or her petition until the next meeting of the Committee. Petitioners do not have an automatic right to a personal appearance before the Committee, but may request it in the petition submitted. Appearance before the Committee may be granted by the Committee in its discretion.

A petitioner for readmission whose petition has been denied may request a rehearing in accordance with such rules as the Committee may establish if there are extraordinary and compelling circumstances that were not known to the petitioner at the time the original petition for readmission was submitted. Personal appearance in a proceeding on a request for rehearing may be granted by the Committee in its discretion.

A petition for readmission or a petition for rehearing shall be addressed to the Committee but shall be submitted to the Law Registrar, with a copy to the Office of the Vice Dean. Committee decisions regarding petitions for readmission and petitions for rehearing shall be final and are not subject to full faculty review.

All Other Petitions

The Committee shall have advisory jurisdiction to the Vice Dean over all petitions for relief from faculty rules other than those over which it has final authority. A petition for any such other purpose shall be addressed to the Committee and submitted to the Law Registrar, with a copy to the Office of the Vice Dean, for transmittal to and consideration by the Committee in accordance with such rules as it may establish.

Petitioners may not seek an independent interview with members of the Committee on matters associated with a pending petition but may seek advice and counsel from the Office of the Vice Dean. Petitioners do not have an automatic right to a personal appearance before the Committee but may request it in the petition submitted. Appearance before the Committee may be granted by the Committee in its discretion.

Grade Normalization Ranges

Beginning in the Fall Semester of 2006, grades in courses will, except in unusual circumstances as stated herein, fall within the parameters as stated. These norms will be phased in as follows:

- All required, non-exempt first-year courses, Fall 2006;
- Constitutional Law II, Evidence, Business Associations, Fall 2007;
- All other non-exempt courses, Fall 2008.

The Normalization Policy sorts courses into categories. In each category, a range for the "mean" grade (arithmetic average grade) is provided together with upper and lower limits of percentages of grades within the "B range" (which includes B+, B, and B-). Some courses certainly should, because of their special pedagogical needs, be exempted from any "normalized" system.

Exempt Courses

1L Legal Research	Clinic
Seminar	Externships (most graded S/U)
Honors Sections	Independent Reading and Research
ASP Sections	Current Representation

Normalization of First-Year Courses

For all first-year courses, except exempt courses and Legal Writing, the mean grade shall fall between 2.40 and 2.90 and the B range shall constitute from 35% to 55% of all grades.

Normalization of Certain Required Second-Year Courses

For the courses in Constitutional Law II, Evidence, and Business Associations, the mean grade shall fall between 2.50 and 3.00 and the B range shall constitute from 35% to 55% of all grades.

Normalization of All Other Courses

For all other courses, including 1L Legal Writing, the mean grade shall fall between 2.70 and 3.50 and the B range shall constitute from 33% to 67% of all grades, unless [except for Legal Writing] the course (or section) has more than 40 students enrolled in which case the mean range shall be tightened to 2.75 to 3.25.

Multiple Section Normalization

For all non-honors sections of required courses taught more than once during the same semester, the highest and lowest means of such courses shall not differ by more than .25. "Required" in this context does not include courses which appear on a menu of courses which satisfy a requirement, such as the 2L writing requirement or the perspective requirement. Second-year writing courses with multiple sections, Law 235 to Law 245, taught in the same semester must comply with the .25 policy within their own course.

Scope of Application

In calculating the mean and B-range for each individual class, the following rules shall be observed:

- (1) a student's grade shall be excluded from the calculation if
  - (a) the student is an LL.M. candidate, a graduate student, or anything other than a matriculated J.D. candidate;
- (2) a student's grade shall be excluded from the calculation if the grade is
  - (a) an S or U to a student exercising the S/U option
  - (b) a W, an I or an IP;
- (3) the calculation shall be made to the "final" grades after points for attendance, participation, or other matter have been included.

Relief from Normalization

Finally, there are two devices for deviations from the policy herein. (1) A faculty member who wishes to reclassify her course (including making it exempt) may do so upon a faculty vote upon a recommendation from the Curriculum Committee; however, such request must be acted upon by the faculty by March 1 if it is to have effect the following academic year. The faculty member, of course, must state the reasons for the reclassification. (2) After the evaluation of student work in a given course is completed, the faculty member may request the Vice Dean for permission for slight deviation from any of the normalization standards for "unusual circumstances."

Graduation Information

Application for Degree

A student who will receive a law degree at the end of a fall semester must make formal application for the degree on a form provided for this purpose by the Registrar's office no later than the preceding April 15th. A student who is to receive the degree at the end of a spring semester or a summer session must make formal application for the degree on a form provided for this purpose by the Registrar's office no later than the preceding October 15th.

If for any reason a student does not meet the requirements for graduation after filing the application, the student must file another formal application by the beginning of the session in which the student now expects to receive the degree.

Commencement

A candidate for graduation at the end of the spring semester is required to be present at Commencement in order to receive his or her diploma. A May candidate who is not able to attend Commencement must make his or her excuse known in writing to the Director of Student Relations, Vice Dean, and the Law Registrar. Degrees are not conferred in absentia except by special permission from the Vice Dean.

The annual Spring Commencement, is usually the Saturday before the third Sunday in May. Commencement events for graduates are planned by the Student Bar Association's 3L Steering Committee, which is assisted by administrative staff. December law graduates are included in a Commencement program for all University graduates in mid-December. Since the fall semester grades may not be available until after the commencement program, the conferral of degrees is conditioned upon successful completion of all requirements prior to actually receiving the diploma. December graduates have the option of participating in either the December or the following May Commencement programs. December graduates should notify the Director of Student Relations and the Law Registrar if they cannot attend the December or May commencement ceremonies.

Graduation Rate

Of the full-time students in the 1L class entering the fall of 2008 (Class of 2011), three (3) students were dropped for academic reasons.

Bar Standards and Passage Standards

Each state has its own bar registration and admission rules. Those who intend to practice law are encouraged to become acquainted with the rules in any state in which they plan to practice, especially those rules relating to registration deadlines and specific courses or course credit hours that might be required during law school. Often, registration with state Board of Bar Examiners is required prior to or shortly after beginning law school.

Information on requirements may be obtained from the agency responsible for bar admission in each state. You should also review the particular state's information on the National Conference of Bar Examiners' web site at www.ncbex.org. Please refer to the publication, "Comprehensive Guide to Bar Admission Requirements."

Most jurisdictions have standards for character and fitness to practice requiring full disclosure of past indiscretions by candidates applying for admission to the bar. Law school applicants should consult with the appropriate bar official to determine if certain past conduct will preclude admission to the bar upon graduation. Additionally, because your law school application provides information relevant to certifying you for state bars, you should fully disclose on the application any information which may in any way reflect on your character and fitness to practice law. It is also imperative, while enrolled in law school, to report any new information to the Registrar and Vice Dean of the law school that may reflect on your character and fitness to practice law.

Student Consumer Information

Information required to be maintained by the School pursuant to federal regulation is gathered and maintained by the Registrar or Financial Aid Office. This information includes: 1) all financial aid programs administered by the institution including federal, state, and institutional programs; 2) procedures and forms to be completed, and criteria for selection and for determination of the amount of the award; 3) rights and responsibilities of students under the federal programs including criteria for eligibility, determination of "good standing," "satisfactory progress," and how to re-establish "good standing," means of making payments and frequency of payments, terms of loans and sample repayment schedules, and general terms and conditions of work, if applicable; 4) cost of attending, including tuition, fees, books, supplies, estimated costs of typical room and board charges, transportation for students living on-campus, off-campus, or at home, and any additional costs of specific programs in which the student indicates an interest; 5) the refund policy; 6) the academic program, including current degree programs, the instructional laboratory, physical facilities, and faculty; 7) retention data; 8) number and percentage of students completing the program in which the student is interested (if available); 9) the title of the person designated to assist students in obtaining this information and how and where such person may be contacted.

A third-year student enrolled in more than 3 hours of S/U externship in any semester may not exercise the pass/fail (S/U) option for any graded course.

Important Note: Various externships may have courses/guidelines as a pre- or co-requisite. Students selected to work for the federal government agencies (i.e., U.S. Attorney's Office, Department of Homeland Security, ATF, FTC, etc.) that require an extensive background check must commit to the employer before the background check is started. Failure to fulfill that commitment will disqualify students from further participation in the externship program. Students enrolled in prosecutor's offices externships must take Legal Profession, Evidence and Criminal Procedure: Investigation as a pre- or co-requisite. See the Director of Experiential Education at least one semester prior to the semester in which you are seeking an externship to determine application procedures and requirements.

Curriculum Guidelines and Policies

Law 300-301 Seminar Policy

The seminar is to be a scholarly writing experience based on research. It is to be researched and done independently. The general subject of the papers in a seminar will be suggested by the seminar's title; the particular subject of a seminar paper is to be approved in advance by the faculty member responsible for the seminar.

The seminar requirement is designed to give students an opportunity to build on the knowledge they have gained during their first two years of law study by making in-depth studies in specialized subjects. The goal for substance in the paper is contribution to knowledge. This implies originality and creativity, hallmarks of true scholarship. The goal for writing is improvement in writing skills. The use of the word skill does not imply any lack of creativity in writing. To achieve this goal, it is necessary to establish a baseline for the student's writing in the seminar, give the student feedback regarding his or her paper, and require a rewrite.

An improvement in the student's approach (possibly via comment on the research), and in the student's substantive analysis are implicit in the rewrite requirement. So, of course, is an improvement in the student's writing. There must therefore be a minimum of two versions of each paper, a first draft and a final version, both of which are submitted to the responsible faculty member for review. Heavy commenting on a draft by a faculty member is required, within the extent to which the paper permits comment. More than one draft before a final version is permitted, but not required, within the discretion of the responsible faculty member. Students will present the results of their research, and their analysis, in class. Because a shared fund of information is necessary to seminar discussion, professors may assign readings. However, because independent research and writing constitute the bulk of the student's work for seminar, professors must be sensitive to not overburdening students with assigned readings.

Seminars will ordinarily meet for 1400 minutes. However, because of the research and writing components, the necessity for student presentation of work, and different pedagogical approaches, variations from this norm are to be expected. Nevertheless, seminars which meet for fewer than 700 minutes or more than 2100 minutes are presumptively out of compliance. The seminar is required for graduation and will count for this purpose only if taken during the student's third year. Second year students may enroll in a third-year seminar with the instructor's permission, space permitting. They may receive credit, but must register the course as Law 490 Independent Reading and Research, and the same does not satisfy the third-year seminar requirement. They will be required to fulfill all the requirements of the course, including class attendance. Enrollment in each seminar is limited to a maximum of 16 students; a lower number shall be utilized as the maximum if the number of available seminars permits.

Law 490 Independent Reading & Research Policy

Independent Reading and Research, from one to three credit hours, is to be a scholarly writing experience for our students. Both the writing and research is to be done independently. The project will be chosen by the student and will be proposed to and approved by the supervising faculty member before registration. There is a 4 credit cap on Independent Reading and Research during a student's career.

There will be an initial draft and a final version. The initial draft will be submitted to the supervising faculty and will be subject to heavy commenting. This will aid the student in improving research and writing skills - the goal of the course. The guidelines for paper length are intended to be flexible but should reflect adequately the credit hours sought by the student. The following are suggested: 1 cr.- 15-25 pages length including appropriate footnotes; 2 cr.-25-35 pages length including appropriate footnotes; 3 cr.-35-45 pages length including appropriate footnotes. This course may not be substituted in lieu of the Seminar requirement.

Law 725-838 Externship Guidelines – Three (3) or Fewer Credits

I. Educational Objectives

- A. Externships have as their educational objectives:
  - 1. To promote student understanding of the law in an applied setting by involving the student in decision-making, problem-solving, and strategizing;
  - 2. To enhance the student's professional skills in areas such as client interviewing and counseling, negotiating, research, legal drafting and writing, and advocating; and
  - 3. To provide the student an opportunity for critical reflection on the attorney's role in various legal institutions and in society from the unique perspective of a participant-observer.

II. Eligibility

- A. Students who have successfully completed their first year of law school, or students who have successfully completed 30 credits, may participate in an externship of 3 or fewer credits.
- B. Students participating in externships should be able to demonstrate academic excellence commensurate with the externship to the Director of Experiential Education as appropriate, and to the Vice Dean. The student must otherwise be in good standing with Valparaiso University School of Law.
- C. Students may be required to take Law 220 Legal Profession as a pre- or co-requisite. Students enrolled in prosecutor's offices externships must also take Law 210 Evidence and Law 467 Criminal Procedure: Investigation as a pre- or co-requisite. In addition, other course pre- or co-requisites may apply depending on the particular externship (see externship descriptions for additional pre- or co-requisites).
- D. Some placements may require a security clearance or direct application to the placement. When students must pass an intensive background check to be accepted into the program, they must commit to the employer when that background check is started. There will be no exceptions.
- E. Students may not enroll in more than one externship per semester and may earn no more than a total of 9 hours in externship credits (up to 3 different placements for 3 credits).
- F. A third year student enrolled in more than three hours of an S/U externship in any semester may not exercise the S/U option for any graded course.
- G. Academic credit is never awarded retroactively for work already undertaken before a student enters an approved externship placement; all externships must be approved first by the Curriculum Committee and then by the faculty.
- H. To be selected to participate in an externship, students must go through the appropriate application process, detailed in Part III below.

III. Application Process

- A. Students must check Strategy throughout the semester as extern openings will be posted in job openings and they may consult the descriptions of available externships from the Director of Experiential Education in the CPC. The Strategy posting descriptions will indicate which application process to follow. Many externship supervisors select externs each spring for the following three semesters; summer, fall, or spring. Selected field supervisors choose to conduct on-campus interviews in the spring to choose next year's student externs.
- B. Interested students must complete the "Externship Application Form," which is available online and from the Director of Experiential Education and, in addition, complete any application form or process required by a particular field supervisor. At the time of completing the "Externship Application Form," the Registrar will verify the academic information supplied on the form.
- C. Students will submit their completed "Externship Application Form" to the Registrar to add the course to their schedule. Field supervisors will choose their externs through various processes. The Director of Experiential Education will administer the campus interviews conducted by selected field supervisors. The Director will notify student externs of their selection and send a copy of the notice to the Registrar. Students must interview with and be selected by their placement field supervisors no later than the first day of semester classes.
- D. Valparaiso University School of Law cannot guarantee any student an externship placement, nor guarantee students their choice of a particular placement.

IV. Registration

- A. Registration is conditional upon and subject to acceptance into one of the externship placements. Registration is limited depending on placement availability. After the application process is completed, the Director of Experiential Education will inform the Registrar of students who have been accepted as externs. Only students who are selected as externs will be permitted to register for the externship. Students shall plan to meet with their faculty supervisor and Director of Experiential Education during the first week of classes at an orientation meeting to receive any special instructions and assignments regarding their externships. Unless informed otherwise, students should make arrangements with the field supervisor to begin work during the first week of classes.

- B. Permission to withdraw from an externship requires the permission of the field supervisor and the Director of Experiential Education. A student may drop an externship only during the drop-add period in any semester and only with the advance approval and written permission of the Director of Experiential Education. Discretion rests with the faculty supervisor to administratively withdraw any student having unexcused absences at the placement or assigned meetings with the faculty supervisor. What constitutes an unexcused absence shall be within the discretion of the faculty supervisor. Students may add an externship only within the first week of classes and only with the permission of the Director of Experiential Education and the field supervisor.

V. Requirements

- A. Student externs are required to work at least 45 hours per credit awarded for the externship experience. For example, for a three-credit externship, a student must work 135 hours, or approximately 10 hours per week for the 14-week semester. Individual Field Supervisors may require more hours to be worked than stated in this paragraph. These hours do not include time spent fulfilling the other requirements of the externship such as maintaining a log, work product file, journal, and filing evaluations.
- B. Students may not receive compensation for their work in an externship. Students may not obtain credit for externship participation at a placement where they are gainfully employed during the externship period. This also applies to students who qualify and receive the Summer Public Interest Scholarship (SPIS).
- C. Each student shall maintain a daily log in which the student designates the amount of time spent together with a brief description of the activity, i.e., designating the type of case and legal issues the student is exploring (all confidential information shall be redacted). The daily log shall be submitted periodically to the field supervisor for signature. The faculty supervisor shall review the student's daily log at least twice during the course of the semester.
- D. Students shall maintain a file of the work product they produce in the externship and shall submit the file at least twice during the semester for review by the faculty supervisor. Confidential information shall be redacted as required by the field supervisor.
- E. Each student extern shall submit to the Director of Experiential Education an evaluation of the externship placement, field supervisor, and faculty supervisor at the close of the externship on a form supplied by the Director of Experiential Education. The student evaluation will not be read by the field supervisor or by the faculty supervisor until after a grade has been submitted for the course.
- F. As part of the externship, students shall maintain journals that contain reflections and evaluations of the students' work experience and any other items assigned by the faculty supervisor. For example, the student should reflect on the lawyer's role and the student's reaction to assuming that role, how well or poorly a given activity went, and the student's challenges in dealing with that activity, and any reflections the student has regarding any activity at the placement.

Judicial externs should reflect additionally on the role of the law clerk, the process of judicial decision-making, and how factual issues are resolved by the court. Government externs should reflect additionally on the role of government attorneys and how that role differs, if at all, from attorneys in the private sector, how government attorneys exercise their discretion to pursue certain cases and not others, and the student's observation about the legal system within which the placement operates. Public interest externs should reflect additionally on the legal system's effect on the lives of people with low incomes and on access to lawyers for people with low incomes.

The journal entries shall not contain any confidential client or case information. The journals will be submitted to the faculty supervisor on a regular basis, as determined by the faculty supervisor.
- G. Each student in a state judicial externship shall submit a final written report at the end of the semester. The report shall include a general discussion of the nature of the experiences gained by the extern, an analysis of the extern's experiences in light of his or her legal education, and a critique of the program, i.e., an evaluation of all favorable and unfavorable aspects of the program.
- H. The externship shall have a classroom component if required by the faculty supervisor.
- I. Individual Faculty Supervisors may have additional requirements that are not listed in these guidelines.
- J. Established and regularized communication shall occur among the Director of Experiential Education, the Field Supervisor, and the student extern.

VI. Proposals of New Externships

Students may elect to propose a new externship that is not available in the law school's current offerings. Formal proposal applications are available from the Director of Experiential Education. Please see Lisa Cannon for these materials and guidance in submitting a new proposal. Note: The deadline to propose a new externship for the following summer or fall semester is February 10. The deadline for a new externship proposal for the spring semester is October 10. These dates are set to provide ample time for review by the Curriculum Committee and approval by the faculty. The School of Law cannot guarantee any student that their proposal will be approved.

VII. Code of Professional Responsibility

All students are expected to conform their conduct to the standards of the Code of Professional Responsibility and the Judicial Code, as applicable. Students are prohibited from discussing confidential case information with anyone other than personnel at their placement.

VIII. Grading Policy

- A. Externships are graded on an S/U basis by the Faculty Supervisor. The student's evaluation shall be based on the time spent and work performed at the placement, and the logs, journals, work product, paper, attendance, content of scheduled meetings with the faculty supervisor, and the field supervisor's written evaluation.
- B. A faculty supervisor may request the Curriculum Committee and the full faculty for leave to offer an externship for a letter grade.

IV. Periodic Review

- A. At the end of the academic year after a new externship is implemented, the faculty sponsor shall submit a report on the externship to the Curriculum Committee for review.
- B. Every three years the Curriculum Committee shall evaluate whether the program is meeting its stated educational objectives and shall submit a written evaluation of the program to the faculty.
- C. In writing their reports and evaluations, the faculty supervisor and Curriculum Committee shall consider the following factors:
  - 1. Adequacy of instructional resources
  - 2. Classroom component
  - 3. Prerequisites for student participation
  - 4. Number of students participating
  - 5. Amount of credit awarded to each student
  - 6. Evaluation of student academic achievement,
  - 7. Qualifications and training of field supervisors
  - 8. Evaluation of field supervisors
  - 9. Evaluation of faculty supervisors, and
  - 10. Visits to field placements.

Special and Endowed Programs

Our formal course of instruction is complemented by a variety of distinctive programs. Most of these programs occur each academic year. Others, such as the scholar and advocates in residence, are triggered by the occurrence of a special event. Students, faculty, and alumni are encouraged to participate in each of these distinctive opportunities. Through these lectures, the Scholars and Advocates in Residence series, and the work of the faculty, Valparaiso University Law endeavors not merely to participate in the public dialogue, but to shape it.

The Edward A. Seegers Lecture

In memory of his parents, Edward A. Seegers, a Chicago attorney, established the first endowed professorship at the School of Law in 1983. In addition to the Louis and Anna Seegers Distinguished Service Professor of Law, the endowment funds an annual lecture series known as the Seegers Lecture. The Lecture series enables the School of Law to host each year a scholar of international reputation. Seegers Lecturers deliver a paper on the law and its intersections with philosophy, ethics, theology and other disciplines. The text of each lecture is published in the Valparaiso University Law Review.

The Monsanto Lectures on Tort Law and Jurisprudence

The purpose of the annual Monsanto Lecture Series is to examine the theory of tort law as it has evolved in the United States and to explore avenues for its reform. Each year, the endowment supports the visit of a nationally renowned scholar to deliver a public lecture on tort reform. The text of each lecture is published in the Valparaiso University Law Review.

Established in 1986, this annual series is endowed by a generous gift from the Monsanto Fund of the Monsanto Company in St. Louis and is made possible through the special efforts of Richard W. Duesenberg, School of Law Class of 1953, retired senior vice president, general counsel and secretary of the Monsanto Company, and John L. Mason, president of the Monsanto Fund.

Established in 1999, The Indiana Supreme Court Lecture is designed to invite distinguished scholars and professionals to speak on a topic of current interest to the profession and the academy. The text of each lecture is published in the Valparaiso University Law Review.

The Indiana Supreme Court generally tries to send a representative from the Court to be present at the lecture. The current members of the Court are Chief Justice Randall T. Shepard and Justices Brent E. Dickson, Robert D. Rucker ('76), Steven H. David, and Frank Sullivan, Jr. The Indiana Supreme Court has been a strong friend and supporter of law schools and legal education in the State of Indiana.

Tabor Institute in Legal Ethics

The Tabor Institute sponsors an annual lecture to enrich the curriculum by enabling reflection on virtuous living, including the relationship between the reasons for being a good lawyer and a good person. The purpose of this lecture series is to illuminate the nature of our vocation and responsibility as lawyers to our clients and our society. The text of each lecture is published in the Valparaiso University Law Review. Established in 1997, this annual series is endowed by Glenn Tabor, School of Law Class of 1958, one of the founders of the law firm of Blachly, Tabor, Bozik and Hartman, and spouse Pat Tabor, School of Law Class of 1962.

The Judge Luther M. Swygert Memorial Moot Court Competition

In memory of the late Judge Luther M. Swygert, Mrs. Gertrude Swygert, his wife, and Michael I. Swygert, his son and member of the School of Law Class of 1967, created an endowed fund for the establishment of the law school's own internal student moot court competition. Judge Swygert served on the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit from 1961-1987.

The Judge Luther M. Swygert Memorial Moot Court Competition is held annually at the School of Law. Each year the judges for the final round include leading members of the federal and state judiciary, with a member of the Seventh Circuit as Chief Judge. In addition to the honor of arguing before a panel of eminent jurists, the endowment provides a monetary award to the winning two-student team.

Martin Luther King Jr. Lectures

During January, around the time of the Martin Luther King Jr. Day federal holiday, the Law School celebrates the life and work of Dr. King. Since 2005 this commemoration has been in the form of an annual lecture series. Various MLK Day activities have been held at the Law School each year since 1991, often planned in connection with the Valparaiso University main campus celebration.

Continuing Legal Education

In service to the practicing bar, the School of Law co-sponsors continuing legal education (CLE) programs with the Indiana Continuing Legal Education Forum. Students are welcome to attend, at no charge, any CLE program of interest on a space available basis. Continuing legal education is mandatory in Indiana.

Law Library

The heart of any good law school is its library. The law, in print and electronic form, is the basic working material of law students and faculty, practicing attorneys, and legal scholars. At Valparaiso University Law Library, students develop research skills which will serve them throughout their careers by utilizing the resources of the collection, a variety of electronic information sources, and the expertise of professional librarians.

VU Law Library provides users with convenient access to a wide array of legal information sources; supports faculty in their teaching and research; educates students in the use of legal information sources; and informs the public about the availability and use of legal resources.

Facilities

Law students spend many of their waking hours in the library. The VU Law Library provides a comfortable and inviting environment for researching and studying the law. Centrally located in Wesemann Hall, the Library occupies a total of 24,000 square feet on three floors. Generous spaces for individual study and for collaboration offer an atmosphere that is conducive to learning. Seating for 300 is provided at tables and open carrels and in casual seating areas. Four study rooms for small groups are located on the library's lower level and one study room on the main level. These rooms may be reserved in advance.

In addition to a wireless network accessible throughout Wesemann Hall, the Law Library is equipped with several Internet terminals attached to various legal databases and a microform reader-printer. Photocopy machines are located on the first floor and lower level and are operated either by coins or by debit cards which can be purchased in the circulation area.

Access

In addition to Law School users, the Law Library provides access to the University community and to the general public. As the largest legal research facility in northwest Indiana, the Law Library is frequently used by local attorneys and judges.

When school is in session, the library is open 113 hours per week, from 7:30 a.m. to midnight Monday through Thursday; 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday; 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday; and 11 a.m. to midnight Sunday. Hours vary during summer and holiday periods. The library is open Monday through Thursday until 1:00 a.m. for law students.

Law students are also welcome to use the University library, the Christopher Center for Library and Information Services, located several blocks away. The Moellering collection at the Christopher Center includes over 350,000 bound volumes, as well as over 900,000 microforms and more than 2,500 current periodicals on site and access to over 8,000 periodical titles electronically. These materials supplement the holdings of the Law Library, facilitating interdisciplinary research in such areas as business, medicine, and engineering.

Collection

The Law Library collection, arranged in open stacks, contains over 350,000 volumes of law and law-related materials in hard copy and micro format. The Library supports the School of Law curriculum and provides all of the basic primary and many secondary materials for researching federal law as well as law in the 50 states. These materials include federal, regional, and state reporters and digests; federal and state statutes and administrative regulations; treatises; and looseleaf publications.

A complete run of over 2,600 serials and periodicals, including all the law reviews published by accredited U.S. law schools, is maintained by the Library. In addition, the library houses one of the few existing collections of the records and briefs of the Indiana Supreme Court and the Indiana Court of Appeals. Audio-visual materials, including nearly 1,000 audiotapes, DVDs and videotapes produced both commercially and locally, are available in the Library.

Since 1978 the Law Library has been a selective federal depository for United States government information in various formats. Holdings include post-1970 congressional materials and the reports and decisions of many government agencies. The library also provides the bibliographic tools to facilitate access to these documents. Besides government documents, the large microform collection includes the U.S. Supreme Court records and briefs from 1974, the Readex United Nations Law Collection from 1984, the Congressional Record and Federal Register since their inception, the session laws of all states since 1981, and a full collection of Indiana session laws.

The basic arrangement of the Law Library collection is as follows. The Reference Collection and some U.S. law materials are located on the main level. Reserve and course materials (see below under Circulation) are shelved in a room located behind the Circulation Desk and must be requested there. On the upper level are the rest of the U.S. law collection, all state materials and books on subjects other than U.S. law, such as British law, foreign relations, health, statistics, women's studies, history, and religion. Materials located on the lower level are the depository collection of government documents and microforms.

The Law Library collection is organized in the familiar Library of Congress classification system. The Library's online catalog, GALILEO, provides access to the law collection as well as to the holdings of the Christopher Center (University Library). Several public access GALILEO terminals are located on the main floor. GALILEO is accessible from via the web at <http://Galileo.valpo.edu>.

Library materials are protected by a book security system, which sounds an alarm in the circulation area when items which aren't properly checked out are being removed from the library. At that point, the user will be asked to show the Circulation Desk staff that all library materials in his/her possession have been checked out properly.

Computer and Other Electronic Services

While maintaining a strong book collection, the Law Library has embraced new technologies. The Law Library houses one computer lab containing 10 Windows-based PCs. There are numerous other PCs scattered around the Library. An email room is located just off the Circulation area. All computers are attached to the law school network, which provides access to word-processing software, Computer Assisted Legal Instruction (CALI) exercises, email and the world wide web. In addition, students can access LEXIS and WESTLAW, two major legal databases. These databases provide access to state and federal court opinions, codes, agency regulations, and various secondary and specialized materials. Other internet-based legal databases such as LegalTrac, ProQuest Congressional, Hein Online, LLMC Digital, and BNA publications are available through the network also. Librarians teach the research skills required to effectively search these databases as part of the first-year curriculum.

In addition to the wired computer lab terminals, the School of Law also features a wireless network that is accessible to all students, staff and faculty. Please see the Network Administrator for details.

The Law Library has its own section on the School of Law's home page on the web, which can be viewed at www.valpo.edu/law/lawlibrary/.

Staff

A well-trained staff of service-oriented librarians provides reference and research assistance to law school users and other library patrons. The professional staff includes seven librarians with graduate degrees, four of whom also hold law degrees. They are assisted by six support staff members, who are responsible for such functions as circulation, looseleafing, and technical support. The Library also employs a number of students for part-time positions such as circulation desk attendant, shelver and filer.

Reference and Instruction

The key to success for a law school library is not just the strength of its collection, but also the quality of the service that it provides to users.

The Law Library's services to students include traditional reference assistance and individualized research instruction, which are offered by librarians a total of 65 hours per week during the academic year. These services are intended to enhance users' research and to limit their frustration.

Since the ability to perform legal research is a skill essential to the practice of law, the Law Librarians place a high priority on providing research instruction to law students. Reference questions are often an opportunity for librarians to provide one-on-one teaching of search strategies and techniques. Student and faculty research efforts are supported by personal guidance and assistance from the librarians. They also serve as instructors in the first-year Legal Research program. In addition, the librarians teach Advanced Legal Research, an elective course for second and third year students.

Circulation and Interlibrary Loan Services

The use of a law library is inherently different from the uses of many other libraries. Most VU Law Library materials form a basic research collection and are used briefly on the premises, rather than being checked out for thorough reading. Circulating materials are primarily single-volume treatises. Members of the School of Law and University community may borrow Law Library circulating materials using a bar-coded VU identification card (which may also be used to borrow circulating materials from the Christopher Center). Others wishing to borrow circulating items may purchase a Patron Card (cost is $15/year), which permits borrowing only from the Law Library. Additional circulation services include placing holds (on any item currently checked out, requesting notification when it is returned) and initiating recalls (on any checked out item that a user requires immediately).

High-demand library materials are often placed "on reserve." Reserve items, including directories, hornbooks, Indiana materials and current-year periodicals, are shelved in the Reserve Room behind the circulation desk. They circulate on a limited basis only: for a period of three hours or overnight after 10:00 p.m. Many assigned course readings and past final exams with sample answers are available through the electronic reserve system to view and print. Please see a librarian for more details.

To serve students and faculty who need materials not available in the Law Library collection, at the Christopher Center, or from a database, the University Library will arrange to borrow items through OCLC, an international computerized network, which allows retrieval from libraries throughout the country. The Law Library also maintains close contact and a liberal borrowing program with the other three Indiana law school libraries (Indiana University-Bloomington, IU-Indianapolis, and Notre Dame) and with Chicago area law libraries. This helps ensure that materials are available when needed for Law Library users.

Publications

THE REPORTER, a newsletter published by the Law Librarians, features legal research guides and updates on library activities. A guide to the services offered by the Library is available on the web site.

Career Planning Center

Valparaiso Law's Career Planning Center (CPC) staff assists students and alumni in making satisfying and informed career decisions, setting realistic goals, and creating opportunities to meet those goals. The practical decision-making and job-search strategies we share will serve you throughout your life.

Consultations

CPC staff members are available to meet individually with enrolled students and degreed alumni to assist with all aspects of career development and the job-search process. Individual consultations include, but are not limited to, developing job-search strategies and techniques, targeting career plans and interests, and conducting career assessments.

Events and Programs

The CPC sponsors a variety of formal and informal networking events throughout the year, each designed to connect students with alumni and potential employers and to sharpen networking and interviewing skills. In addition, the CPC engages renowned speakers who visit the campus to share advice and help students navigate their job search. Valparaiso Law students also participate in career events and programs across the United States.

Experiential Education

A critical aspect to professional education is gaining practical experience to complement your studies. The Career Planning Center offers a comprehensive experiential education program for students interested in gaining professional experience prior to graduation. A brief description of the CPC's experiential education program follows:

While you are a law student at Valparaiso University School of Law, you will have many prospects to gain legal experience. The Career Planning Center offers assistance with locating internships, externships and pro bono opportunities to provide students with the core competencies necessary to achieve long-term career goals in the legal profession. A recent article appearing on the American Bar Association website said, "Aside from passing the bar exam, the key qualifications for finding a job after graduation is legal experience." For this reason, the Career Planning Staff work with employers to provide mutually beneficial employment relationships.

Internships

During your first semester of law school, students are highly encouraged to meet with a Career Planning professional to begin to strategize your career goals and prepare your legal résumé. Employers will seek students for paid clerkships/internships during the school year and over the summer break. Many firms will visit the School of Law's campus to conduct interviews and others will collect résumés directly. These opportunities will be posted in Strategy, the CPC online database. In addition to many local law firms, a small sampling of summer 2010 internship sites included Barnes & Thornburg; the Indiana Attorney General, and the Department of Homeland Security: Customs and Immigration.

Pro Bono Externship Administration

Valparaiso Law students must complete a pro bono requirement of 40 hours and attend a pro bono plenary session in the semester they plan to graduate in order to fulfill this graduation requirement. Full-time students may participate after completion of the 1L year and part-time students upon completion of 30 credit hours.

Supervision by an attorney is important to guard against the unauthorized practice of law.

Administration – The program will be administered by the Director of Experiential Education. All forms necessary are listed on the career planning or Registrar's web page. Students MUST keep a copy of all submissions for their records and submit final pro bono reports to the Assistant Registrar only when all pro bono work is completed.

Site Selection – Only when a student proposes to work for a private law firm or corporation, the student must submit the Site Confirmation Form to the Career Planning Center and receive approval prior to beginning the work. This form is not necessary if the student is working for an employer in the public (non-profit) sector. The Site Confirmation Form is returned to the student to submit with all final reports to the Assistant Registrar.

Compensation – Students cannot receive compensation (credit or wages) for the hours of service used to satisfy the requirement. Satisfactory completion of the requirement will be demonstrated by a written certification from both the student and supervisor(s). The honor code applies to the student's certification.

Externships

Externship programs provide students with an opportunity to perform legal research and writing and to work closely with attorneys, prosecutors, public defenders, government agencies, legal services, and state and federal judges. There are many externship programs available to upper division students, ranging from 2-3 cr. hrs. See Law 725-832 online at <http://www.valpo.edu/law/externships/externlisting.php> for more on the externship program or contact the Director of Experiential Education in CPC with any questions about the program. Open positions are posted in the CPC database each semester and students must have their résumé approved by the Career Planning Center to apply for extern positions electronically. Additionally, twelve externship employers came to the School of Law and participated in over 150 interviews last year. Samples of externship positions include opportunities with the Department of Justice, the Department of Homeland Security, Loyola University Medical Center and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

See also the VU Disability Support Services Office at <http://www.valpo.edu/cas/support/dss.php>.

Valparaiso University School of Law strives to assure that staff and students with disabilities have access to the full range of programs and services it offers. The provision of auxiliary assistance is primarily the responsibility of the Department of Rehabilitation Services of the state in which the student maintains legal residence. If the request for assistance is denied by the local agency, Valparaiso University's provision of reasonable academic accommodations will be based upon a case by case analysis of an individual student's need and his/her eligibility under the American Disabilities Act and Section 504 of The Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and its regulations.

It is the responsibility of the person with a disability to self-identify to Director of Student Relations Joseph Baruffi and request the necessary application forms for accommodations. Along with the accommodations application forms, documentation of the disability from an appropriate professional is required. The documentation generally consists of a report from an appropriate professional explaining the testing that has been completed, the diagnosis, the major life activity that is affected by the disability, and a recommendation of appropriate accommodations.

The deadlines to submit accommodation request applications for examinations and documentation of disability are as follows: Fall semester – October 1; Spring semester – March 1; and Summer sessions – May 15. Classroom accommodation requests and documentation are due prior to enrolling.

Except as otherwise provided, the School of Law shall keep in confidence all medical or clinical records and data, and all other information submitted by or in connection with a student's request for accommodation pursuant to all applicable federal, state, and University laws and policies. The identity of a student and information submitted in support of an accommodation may be divulged to individuals with a need to know, such as the members of the law school's Accommodation Committee, necessary support staff, and qualified individuals used to assist in the accommodation decision-making process. The identity of a student with a disability will not otherwise be disclosed – particularly to faculty members – without the student's consent unless confidentiality is impracticable (such as an obvious disability requiring a noticeable classroom accommodation) or disclosure is for good cause (such as a student's filing a complaint against a faculty member).

Exam Modifications for International Students

Exam modifications are available to international law students who have not previously been awarded a degree for which the primary instruction has been in English. For in-class final examinations, one hour of additional time and use of an English translation dictionary will be afforded. Exceptions to this will be considered if the exams for this instruction were not in-class essay exams. An additional written request should be submitted with the Exam Modification Request form stating why an exception should be made. This exception will be reviewed and require approval by the Accommodations Committee. Additional time is not afforded for take-home type exams.

Email

All law students are assigned an email account by the University's Information Technology (IT) Office. Email accounts use students first and last names (i.e., "john.smith@valpo.edu"). Important administrative information and reminders for upcoming events will be sent via email. Email on your Valparaiso account is the official form of University communication and must be checked regularly or forwarded to an existing account if applicable. Forwarding can be set by contacting the IT Help Desk at 219.464.5678 or by using the IT Online Service Center (www.valpo.edu/IT).

Emergencies

If an emergency requires administrative attention, the Dean's Office, Registrar's Office or the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and/or the Director of Student Relations should be contacted immediately. Students may register to receive emergency relating text messages at <http://emergency.valpolaw.net>.

Emergency Student Loan Program

This fund is for students needing a short-term loan for emergencies only and not for personal budget shortfalls, grocery purchases, etc. There is a $500 cap on these loans. Because of the limited funds, success of the loan program depends on the timely repayment of these loans. Failure to pay the loan in a timely manner will impose a hold on the release of a student's transcript and diploma. Contact Ann Weitgenant, Associate Director of Student Financial Planning, Wesemann Hall, Room 210.

Faxing

A student fax machine is located in the Student Bar Association Office (Room 143A). The fax number is (219) 465.7924. During holidays, vacation and summer months, when the SBA Office is closed, students are asked to make other arrangements for sending FAX messages.

Students are expected to pay for the costs of such treatment if it is not covered by the Student Medical Plan. ### Parking Regulations

<http://www.valpo.edu/vupd/parking/index.php>

Parking lots on campus are designated for special uses and are identified by color-coding. Holders of vehicle registration permits are restricted to parking in areas identified by a color that matches the color on their registration decal. Such areas may be identified by more than one color. Designated parking areas are marked by signage and the following color-coding:

-  Yellow - staff (all Valparaiso University Employees)
-  Orange - ALL commuter students
-  Blue - resident Sophomores and Juniors
-  Red - resident Freshmen
-  Blue/Orange - Resident Seniors-may park in any blue or orange lots
-  V Temporary Visitor

Special parking areas are provided as a privilege for Valparaiso University students and employees. Operators of registered vehicles have the privilege of parking in specified areas, but having a registered vehicle does not ensure the availability of a parking space. The responsibility of finding a legal parking space rests with the vehicle operator. Vehicle registration may be revoked for persons who are repeated violators of traffic and parking regulations.

A legal parking space is defined as an area specifically designated for parking and typically defined by parking blocks and/or painted surface lines and/or indicated with appropriate signage. Areas not identified as parking areas should be construed as "NO PARKING" zones. Parking on campus is prohibited on grass and in areas where it would mar landscaping, create a safety hazard and interfere with the use of University facilities. Such areas include, but are not limited to, posted no parking zones, yellow zones, fire lanes and access areas, crosswalks, sidewalks, hash mark areas, areas designed for special vehicles or other special uses and roadways serving parking lots and buildings. Parking in spaces marked for the disabled are restricted to vehicles identified with appropriate tags or license plates or a special indicator issued by the Valparaiso University Police Department.

The person to whom a vehicle is registered on campus is accountable for parking violations with that vehicle, including the unauthorized use of an assigned registration decal. Registration decals issued to employees provide parking privileges only for the employee; it is a violation of parking regulations for a non-employee driving a vehicle registered by an employee to park in a parking area designated for employees. Vehicles that display a parking decal that is registered to a different vehicle will be considered falsified or unauthorized transfer of registration. Both parties will be cited.

* Estimated Cost of Attendance (for 1 year)

Tuition	=	$37,240

Room	=	6,500
Board	=	2,300
Books	=	1,200
Misc/Personal	=	1,600

Loan Fee	=	410
Total		$50,846

Refunds

Withdrawal From All Classes

Students who withdraw from Valparaiso University may be eligible for a refund of a portion of the tuition and room and board charges for the semester of their withdrawal. The University and/or the student may be required to return some of the federal financial aid, if any, awarded to the student. If the student received financial aid from state, University or private funds (other than family), a portion of the refund may also be returned to the grant, scholarship or loan source from which it was received.

Valparaiso University's refund policy exists for calculating the refund of institutional charges. The federal "Return of Title IV Funds" formula dictates the amount of Federal Title IV aid that must be returned to the federal government by the school and the student. The federal formula is applicable to a student receiving federal aid other than Federal Work Study, if that student withdraws on or before the 60% point in the semester. The student may also receive a refund of institutional charges through the University's refund policy (below). The amount of refund of institutional charges will be the greater of the amount the school must return to federal Title IV programs or the amount determined by the University's refund policy.

The date of withdrawal and basis for calculating all refunds will be the date on which the student provides the completed withdrawal form to the Law Registrar. Each semester, a schedule of the applicable refund dates is available in the Finance Office, the Office of Financial Aid, and the Registrar's Office.

In accordance with Valparaiso University's refund policy, students who withdraw from the University will receive a prorated refund of tuition and room fees, according to the following schedule:

During the 1st week of classes	90%	During the 5th week of classes	50%
During the 2nd week of classes	80%	During the 6th week of classes	40%
During the 3rd week of classes	70%	During the 7th week of classes	30%
During the 4th week of classes	60%	After the 7th week of classes	None

If a student is receiving financial aid, University and state funds will be reduced according to the above University refund policy. However, the schedule is different for federal funds. If a student withdraws on or before the 60% point in the semester, the percentage of funds that must be returned to the federal government is equal to the number of calendar days remaining in the semester, divided by the number of calendar days in the semester. Scheduled breaks of more than four consecutive days are excluded. The calculation of the return of these funds may result in the student owing a balance to the university and/or the federal government.

Note:

If funds are released to a student because of a credit balance on the student's account, then the student may be required to repay some of the federal grants if the student withdraws. Students considering withdrawing from all classes should consult with the Financial Aid Office if they are concerned about the financial impact of withdrawing.

Dropping Courses:

If a student drops one or more courses but continues to be enrolled in at least one course for the semester, their tuition charges will be refunded according to the University's refund policy. There will be no refund of special, laboratory or general fees. The financial aid award, if any, is subject to revision if the student drops one or more courses.

SATISFACTORY ACADEMIC PROGRESS POLICY

Federal Aid Policy (Title IV)

The following is federal aid policy (Title IV). Federal aid recipients must maintain minimum standards of satisfactory academic progress for receipt of federal, state, and most VU aid programs. All students receiving financial assistance must maintain matriculated status in a degree program. Regulations require a maximum time frame for degree completion, a quantitative measurement (credits earned toward a degree), and a qualitative measurement (cumulative grade point average). These three criteria are checked at the end of each academic year in May to determine whether students are maintaining satisfactory academic progress.

Law Students - Federal Aid Recipients

Law students may attempt up to 150% of the hours required for the law degree (135 attempted hours compared to 90 hours required for the law degree). Part-time students must complete the degree within seven years, even if they have not reached a maximum number of attempted hours. Students must complete at least two-thirds of all credit hours attempted each academic year.

For financial aid purposes, incompletes and withdrawals will count as hours attempted but not completed. If incompletes are later completed, they will be reflected when progress is again checked, or sooner if the student appeals. Repeated courses will be added to total hours attempted or hours completed for purposes of calculating financial aid or cost to the student. The new grade will be included in the GPA calculation, which will be considered when progress is again checked, or sooner if the student appeals. VU does not offer non-credit remedial courses.

Appeals and Reinstatement

Students whose academic progress is not in compliance with federal aid standards will be notified in writing after the spring semester that their eligibility for aid has been terminated. They will also be advised of the appeal and reinstatement policy at that time. Students may appeal termination of their federal aid eligibility based on extenuating circumstances, which may include illness, death in the family, other circumstances beyond the student's control, or special academic circumstances. If the appeal is approved, the student will normally have one academic year to attain the appropriate GPA and completed credit hour standards, unless specified differently by the appeals committee. In some cases, the committee may put the student on probation for one semester and require that the student meet certain standards. Students who don't appeal, or whose appeal is denied, will not regain federal aid eligibility until the semester after they have attained the appropriate GPA and completed credit hour standards. Appeals should be directed to the Office of Financial Aid Appeals Committee.

Other Considerations - For Federal Aid Purposes

Summer school credits may be considered in evaluating attainment of the academic progress standards on an appeal basis. Certain aid programs have shorter time frame limits. For example, federal loan programs have cumulative limits that may be exceeded before the maximum time frame limits are reached.

APPLYING FOR FINANCIAL AID –SCHOOL CODE 001842

First-Time Financial Aid Applicants/Borrowers

Valparaiso University School of Law is committed to providing financial assistance to students who would otherwise be unable to pursue a legal education. The School of Law requires that the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) form be completed to determine eligibility. No additional forms are required. To ensure that you are considered for the maximum amount of financial aid, the FAFSA should be completed by March 1st prior to the year you expect to receive financial aid. This application can be accessed at www.fafsa.ed.gov.

The processors will send the completed analysis back to you and will send it electronically to the institutions you designate. Your financial aid award will then be calculated on the basis of this report.

The Financial Aid Office will send you notice of your award after you have been admitted to the School of Law. The award letter will include details of your eligibility for subsidized and unsubsidized loans as well as the simplified procedure necessary for obtaining the loan funds you wish to borrow for the next academic year.

Federal Programs Available to Law Students

Approximately 90% of all financial aid available to law students comes from student loan programs. Federal student aid is awarded on the basis of need as determined in accordance with the federal guidelines. These loans include the Federal Direct Subsidized Loan and the Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loan.

If you intend to apply for the Federal Direct Subsidized Loan or the Unsubsidized Loan, you only need to complete the FAFSA; no other application is required. All paperwork will be completed directly with VU, and VU will work with the federal government to obtain your loan funds and credit them directly to your student account each semester. Grad Plus Loans are available through the Department of Education, (www.studentloans.gov) but private loans are not part of the Federal Direct Student Loan Program. Grad Plus and private loans require loan applications a private loan link is available at www.valpo.edu/law/finaid to review available loans. These loans require a credit check and loan amounts cannot exceed the cost of attendance.

Completed and approved loan applications are sent to the Financial Aid Office for certification. To insure on-time disbursement, loan applications should be completed by July 1. If your loan is approved, the money will be issued to the University. All loan checks are disbursed by the University Finance Office (Kretzmann Hall) and after tuition and fees are paid the remaining balance is disbursed to the student. Refund forms are required to receive any additional funds on the students account. Refund forms are online at www.valpo.edu/law under the Financial Aid link. Funds are not available until 10-14 days after classes begin each semester.

Renewing Financial Aid

Renewing financial aid can be done by completing the FAFSA renewal application via the web. Renewal instructions are emailed to students who have completed a FAFSA for the current year.

Renewal applications make applying for aid easier because much of the students' data is already in the system from the previous year's FAFSA application. Students should use their four-digit PIN which was supplied by the federal processor to access www.fafsa.ed.gov. The PIN gives the applicant the ability to edit and update information from year to year such as income and assets. Review the entire application before sending it electronically and follow the complete instructions from the processor.

Financial aid emails for returning students are completed after all Spring grades are received. Students will no longer receive a hard copy of their financial aid information unless it is requested. All information regarding a student's financial aid will be accessible on their DataVu account.

What to Expect in Future Years

Generally, all financial aid awards are one-year awards. Some scholarships, however, may be automatically renewed if certain minimum conditions are met. Since the cost of attendance and the financial situation of students change from year to year, each student applying for financial aid must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) on an annual basis as well as Grad Plus or private loan applications.

Each year the Financial Aid Office publishes a Financial Aid Guide which is available online at www.valpo.edu/law/finaid in the forms section.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Campus Work Study

The Campus Work Study Program is a joint venture of the federal government and the University that provides part-time employment for students who qualify for need-based financial aid.

Teaching Assistants

Teaching assistantships are available to second and third-year law students in the Legal Writing Program. The appointments are for one year and selections are made by the legal writing professors. The teaching assistants work with the legal writing professors in administering, supervising and critiquing the projects required in the first and second-year legal writing courses.

Research Assistants

Research assistantships are generally semester appointments with a faculty member. Appointments are available to second and third-year law students and are made by the individual faculty members.

NOTE: Students should note that it is a requirement of the School of Law and of the American Bar Association that a full-time law student not be employed in excess of 20 hours per week during the school term.

LOAN REPAYMENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS

In recent years, the School of Law has taken a progressive lead in legal education by encouraging its students to further the public interest in and out of law school. The School of Law is continually exploring meaningful ways in which it can promote the delivery of legal services to the unrepresented who cannot afford a lawyer.

Summer Public Service Scholarships

The School of Law offers scholarships to students who wish to work during the summer months for a public interest organization or state or local governmental agencies. These scholarships are awarded to students who have positions where no compensation is paid and no academic credit is earned. The scholarship program has been in place since 1989, and over 160 students have received scholarships ranging from $500 to $2,500 depending on the kind of employment and the number of hours worked over the summer. Students should direct questions about the Summer Public Interest Scholarships to the Career Planning Center.

Loan Repayment Assistance Program (LRAP)

In order to encourage law students to accept public interest employment upon graduation, the School of Law offers loan assistance to graduates who have accepted positions in public interest, lower-paying employment, and who have accumulated substantial debt from educational loans. Applications for both the Summer Public Service Scholarship and the LRAP are required, and students interested in such an opportunity should contact the Career Planning Center at the School of Law.

AWARDS & SCHOLARSHIPS

Financial assistance administered by the School of Law is available through endowed funds, gifts of alumni and friends, and through a general appropriation of funds by Valparaiso University. In general, each of the three law classes is awarded approximately the same amount of merit assistance. While first-year students receive merit awards based on projections of academic success and contributions, second and third-year students receive merit awards based on actual academic success and contribution. All scholarships are renewed if certain minimum conditions are met. Full-tuition scholarship students must maintain a cumulative grade point average of 3.0. All other scholarships, that are less than full-tuition, require a 2.9 cumulative grade point average, unless otherwise specified. Retention of scholarships is determined when all spring grades are processed. Awards are made to second and third year full-time students based on academic performance in the School of Law.

Veterans' Programs

In addition to working with the Veterans' Administration (VA), military veterans should consult with the Associate Director of Student Financial Planning as soon as possible when preparing to enroll at the Valparaiso University School of Law. The University does participate in the Yellow Ribbon Program under the recently enacted Post 9/11 GI Bill otherwise known as Chapter 33. The University awards the Patriot Award which in conjunction with the base Chapter 33 benefit and the additional Yellow Ribbon benefit will cover the general fee and all but approximately $10,000 of the student's annual tuition. The University does limit the number of Yellow Ribbon recipients it funds and priority goes to returning students already in the program and then on a first-come, first-served basis for new students. If Valparaiso scholarships/grants are part of the veteran's financial aid award, then total resources including VA scholarships and stipends and Federal Direct Loans may not exceed the veteran's cost of attendance as determined by the University's Office of Financial Aid. Veterans may elect to decline University scholarship/grant aid in order to fully utilize federal student loan assistance which allows the veterans to receive aid in excess of the cost of attendance. Veterans are asked to meet with the Associate Director of Student Financial Planning at the School of Law to discuss their options before enrolling.

Applicants are required to complete and submit the application by June 1 of the year in which admission is sought. For optimal scholarship consideration, files should be complete by March 1. Admission offers as a first-year student are only made for the fall semester of each year.

The School of Law uses a rolling admission process. Applications are considered by the Admissions Committee when they are complete. Decisions are usually issued twice a month from late Fall through May. After June 1, if space is available, wait list applicants may be offered a seat.

In order to apply as a first-year student, an applicant is required to:

- Have received or be expected to receive a bachelor's degree from a regionally-accredited college or university prior to law school matriculation;
- Take the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT).
- Complete the Application form and submit it online to the School of Law, along with the required essay, resume, two letters of recommendation, and a $60 application fee. An application for admission may be submitted even though the applicant has not yet taken the LSAT. Review takes place when the file is complete;
- Please note that the application fee should be paid by credit card on-line when submitting the application. The application fee is not refundable. The application fee will be waived if LSAC has waived it.
- Register with the Credential Assembly Service. The applicant must arrange for the submission of transcript(s) of undergraduate and graduate schools attended to CAS. LSAT and CAS registration materials are obtained online at www.lsac.org.
- Arrange for the timely submission of recommendations to the LSAC. Valparaiso University School of Law requires two letters of recommendation as part of the admissions process. Applicants are required to send their letters of recommendation to LSAC for inclusion in their CAS report – two letters from faculty or other professionals, including employers, who can attest to the applicant's academic readiness for law school.

Any false or misleading statements or an incomplete or inaccurate application may be the basis for denial of admission, or, if admitted, dismissal from the School of Law and reported to Law Services. Through your electronic signature on the application you certify that it is complete and accurate. You are expected to notify the Admissions Office in writing of any changes of status or disclosures related to character and/or fitness that occur after the date of your certification and prior to matriculation. Following matriculation all updates to character and/or fitness should be submitted in writing to the Law Registrar's office.

An admitted student must submit an official, final undergraduate transcript, showing the receipt of a degree or degrees and all academic work undertaken prior to the date of registration, directly to Valparaiso University School of Law by July 15. The official transcript is to be mailed directly from the conferring institution to the Admissions Office.

All admissions offers are conditional upon the receipt of a final undergraduate transcript and may be revoked if the official transcript certifying receipt of bachelor's degree is not received. Note: Transcripts received by the Admissions Office as part of the LSAC Report are not official and do not fulfill this requirement.

Admissions applications are to be submitted on-line via <http://www.valpo.edu/law/admissions/apply.php>.

Tuition Deposits

All offers of admission are conditional upon receipt of a tuition deposit and the required transcript(s) showing conferral of a bachelor's degree (and law school grades for transfer applications). The tuition deposit is applied toward tuition and general fees. Tuition deposits are non-refundable.

Orientation

An orientation and registration program for all new students is held for 2-3 days before the first day of classes in August. All new students are required to attend. Specific details on orientation become available online to all new students during the summer.

Transfer Application

In order to apply as a transfer candidate, an applicant is to submit:

- A completed on-line application for admission, indicating transfer status, with $60 registration fee paid on-line
- A letter of good standing from the dean of the law school currently attending;
- An official transcript from the undergraduate institution showing the conferral of a bachelor's degree;
- A certified academic transcript covering all course work completed prior to transfer (completion of first year);
- A copy of the first page of the CAS Report originally submitted for admission to law school.

Credit Awarded to Transfer Students

A student transferring to Valparaiso University School of Law from another law school is expected to have completed the first year of law school, usually 24-30 credit hours and may receive up to 30 hours of course credit, provided:

- That the student meets the scholastic average required for graduation by that law school and all other conditions and requirements for continued attendance at that school;
- That the student's scholastic standing meets the requirements of the Valparaiso University School of Law for advanced standing;
- That the work which the student has completed is similar in character to that which is given at Valparaiso University School of Law; and
- That the student has met the entrance requirements of Valparaiso University School of Law for first year law students.

The right is reserved to withhold such credit, wholly or in part. Credit which has been granted provisionally may be withdrawn because of unsatisfactory work at Valparaiso University School of Law. No advanced standing is given for courses completed with a grade of 1.7 (C-) or below (or the equivalent).

Prior to registration, a student admitted with advanced standing must consult with the School of Law's Registrar regarding credit to be transferred. The amount of credit transferred depends on the quality of the student's record and the relationship of the coursework to the program at Valparaiso University School of Law. A maximum of 30 hours of course credit may be transferred.

Grades from transferred credits will not be used to compute the student's cumulative grade point average at Valparaiso University School of Law. The student must obtain and maintain a grade point average of at least a 2.0 (C) at Valparaiso

University School of Law to be eligible for a degree. In the computation of a student's standing, grades of 0.0 (or F) earned at Valparaiso University School of Law are included. Students who enter with advanced standing do not have an official class ranking until graduation.

Visiting Student Application

In order to apply as a visiting student, an applicant must submit:

- A completed on-line application of admission, visiting status;
- A letter of good standing from the Dean of the law school currently attending, indicating that credits taken at Valparaiso University School of Law will be accepted by that institution as transfer credit;
- An official transcript covering all law school course work completed.

For the Prospective J.D./M.A., J.D./M.S., J.D./M.A.C.S. or J.D./M.A.L.S. Applicant

Admission Criteria and Procedures

Persons should apply to the M.A., M.S., M.A.C.S., or M.A.L.S. program at the same time that they first apply to the School of Law. Admission to one program does not guarantee admittance to the other. All dual degree applicants should submit a $20 application fee directly to the graduate division along with their application to the graduate program, in addition to the $60 application fee to the law school.

Information for the Prospective J.D./M.B.A. Applicant

Valparaiso University School of Law Honor Code

I. Citation

These provisions, the rules and procedures herein may be cited and referred to as the Valparaiso University School of Law Honor Code.

II. Preamble

The Valparaiso University School of Law Honor Code is adopted to promote and ensure the opportunity of each student to pursue legal education to the best of his or her ability in an atmosphere of trust and mutual respect. The Code recognizes that achievement of these goals is ultimately dependent on the integrity of each individual student.

Nothing herein, including the provisions of Article XII, shall be interpreted in conflict with standards 205 and 208 of the Accreditation Standards of the American Bar Association, requiring the dean and faculty to retain control over matters entrusted to them by the standards.

III. Scope

The Honor Code applies to the behavior of any student of the Valparaiso University School of Law.

IV. Canons

The following canons are general principles, representing objectives toward which every Valparaiso University law student should strive. They constitute standards of professional conduct which should provide guidance for students in many specific situations.

- * A student should scrupulously regard the rights of others and should observe high ethical standards in his or her conduct. A student should strive to promote an academic environment where each student has an equal opportunity to use all of the resources of the school. A student should not take any action which deprives another student of a reasonable opportunity to use the resource materials.
- * A student should never offer or render and/or receive aid of any kind from another student during an examination. A student who has taken an examination should never offer or render aid concerning the examination to a student who has not yet taken the examination. Likewise, a student who has not yet taken an examination should never request or accept aid from a student who has taken the examination, or obtain a copy of an examination before taking it.
- * The Code recognizes that discussions between students are an integral factor of legal education. Within the parameters of specific instructions on any given assignment, students are encouraged to exchange ideas and alternative viewpoints. However, all work submitted for evaluation should ultimately be the result of that student's independent effort. A student should never submit the work of another as his or her own work.
- * Except at a public trial, a student participating in or aware of any Honor Code proceeding should not divulge any information concerning the proceeding outside of the proceeding itself. A student should obey all directions of the Honor Court or Honor Commission.
- * Any student associated with the Honor System should be a person of high integrity, competence and of suitable temperament, and be a non-probationary student. The student should strive to maintain an independent and objective attitude in the performance of his or her duties.
- * The enforcement of the Honor Code is ultimately dependent on the integrity of each individual student. A student should not initiate Honor Code proceedings if he or she is aware or should have been aware that the accusations are false, nor should a student initiate Honor Code proceedings for the sole purpose of injuring the reputation of another student or in a deliberate attempt to cause another student emotional distress.

V. The Honor Code Pledge

It has been a tradition at the Valparaiso University School of Law to require all students to sign an honor code pledge on the work done for academic credit.

This pledge reads as follows: I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid.

Each student must sign the pledge with their examination number.

VI. Violations

As future members of the legal profession, students at the School of Law bear a special responsibility to insist upon and to maintain high standards of integrity. Accordingly, the School of Law has defined the following violations which are subject to discipline in accordance with the procedures set forth in subsequent sections of this Code.

A. Misrepresentation.

Misrepresentation includes any act of fraud or deception by which the student gains or attempts to gain an academic benefit or advantage from the University, its constituent institutions, its faculty, staff, or students, or persons dealing with the University. Examples of this offense include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Forgoing or altering any University document, record, or instrument of identification;
- Furnishing material information which is known by the student to be false to any official, other employee, or agent of the University;
- Signing the school attendance policy indicating that the student has attended the requisite number of scheduled class meetings per course when in fact the student knows such to be false;
- Falsely signing another student's name to the school attendance policy.

B. Unfair Advantage.

Unfair advantage includes any act of fraud, deception, or improper influence by which the student gains or attempts to gain an academic benefit or advantage from the University, its constituent institutions, its faculty, staff, or students, or persons dealing with the University. "Academic benefit or advantage" results from the student's course work as well as from co-curricular activities such as Law Review, Moot Court, Mock Trial and Client Counseling Competition. Examples of this offense include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Unauthorized copying, collaboration, or use of notes or books on any examination, project, or paper;
- Failing to observe time limits set for an examination by the instructor in charge;
- Lying about the performance of academic work;
- Submitting as one's own and without citation, writings or ideas known by the student to be of another (including those of any person furnishing writing for hire) in any academic pursuit; offering or attempting to offer money or some other thing or service to a member of the University community, including its faculty, staff, and students, in an effort to gain unauthorized academic benefit or advantage;
- Stealing, damaging, or destroying notes or books of students;
- Stealing, hiding, or vandalizing library materials.

C. Obstruction of Honor Code Process.

This section includes any failure to cooperate with the Honor Court, a Presenter, or other agency acting hereunder with respect to the conduct of any investigation or proceeding held in connection with any alleged violation by any other person of the Honor Code.

D. Accessoryship.

This section includes any aid intentionally given to another student in violation of this Code.

E. Corruption of Honor Code Process.

This section includes the use of a position on the Honor Court, or Honor Commission, or as a Presenter, to obtain, or attempt to obtain, a special advantage in academic matters for himself for another where he knows or it is obvious that such action is improper.

The full honor code and procedures are available in the Dean's Office.

Valparaiso University Sexual Harassment Policy

Valparaiso University prohibits discrimination and harassment by all faculty, staff, and students. Law students who feel they have been a victim of sexual harassment are encouraged to report the incident to the Vice Dean, the Director of Student Relations, or one of the University Sexual Harassment Complaint Advisors/Advocates. A list of Sexual Harassment Complaint Advisors/Advocates may be obtained by calling: 1) the SAAFE Office at 464-6860 or 2) the Vice President for Student Affairs at 464-5411. The full policy and procedures found in the University's Student Handbook is available to all law students at <http://www.valpo.edu/registrar/stuguide.php>.
