

What is SNA?

Back Row: Kristina Mancini (President), Lauren Kloostra (Historian), Joel Koch (Treasurer). Front Row: Katie Rader (Secretary, Vicki Chambers (President-Elect).

2008-09 SNA Officers

The Student Nurses Association is a national organization that brings student nurses together to discuss current healthcare issues as well as celebrate the nursing profession. The state level informs each school's chapter of upcoming events and issues that are important for student nurses. The National Student Nurses' Association has a national convention that raises new issues that effect the future of nursing.

Valparaiso University's Student Nurses Association is an organization of student nurses. One of the big benefits of being a member of the Student Nurses Association is being able to work with people in our community and inform the public and our university of important health issues. Each month we gather together at an informal meeting to plan community service projects that will be pursued in the upcoming months. We also relax and have fun. Also, the Student Nurses Association provides a forum to hear from nurses practicing in a wide variety of settings such as the hospital, community health, and flight nurses.

Here's What's Happening Now.....

- Next meeting Wednesday, Oct. 1 @ 8:00 pm in LeBien Hall Room 108
- We will have two speakers. One about study abroad options for nursing students. The second is about flexible jobs for nursing students in the northwest IN area.
- To keep up to date with SNA info, people can join the SNA Facebook group!
- Any questions/comments can be sent to Kristina.Mancini@valpo.edu