

MORRIS FEATURED IN "THE SCIENTIST" MAGAZINE

Gary Morris' Fulbright-sponsored research in Japan has been featured in a recent issue of "The Scientist" magazine. Dr. Morris' research in Japan involves studying the effects of Beijing's pollution, and pollution controls during last year's Olympics, on the air quality over Japan. Please follow the link to reach the magazine article:

<http://www.the-scientist.com/2009/10/1/25/1/>

Also follow these links to see videos of a balloon launch and a simulation of the flow of air from Beijing.

http://physics.valpo.edu/ozone/data/Fulbright/movies/o3sondelaunch\_japan20090821/o3sondelaunch\_japan20090821.mov

http://physics.valpo.edu/ozone/data/Fulbright/trajectory/beijing\_plume\_aug2008/beijing\_plume\_aug2008.mov

The PDF Footer