

Valparaiso University, College of Arts and Sciences, English
Associate Professor, Professional and Technical Writing/Health Sciences

The Department of English at Valparaiso University seeks a specialist in professional and technical writing with experience and/ or expertise in the health sciences. Teaching includes courses within our professional writing major or minor in English, as well as the development of a writing-in-the-health-sciences course to be required of all majors in the College of Nursing and Health Professions (CONHP). This faculty member will oversee our undergraduate professional writing emphasis in the English major and minor, and collaborate with CONHP in the development of writing curricula in the health sciences.

The position is tenure-line, to begin August 2015. Ph.D. required. Candidates should be interested in working at a university engaged in issues in Christian higher education in the Lutheran tradition, which emphasizes excellent teaching and commitment to student learning, and is increasing its international enrollment and programming. In addition to strong academic qualifications and excellence in teaching, the University highly values experience in working across cultural and other significant differences. Successful applicants will demonstrate a commitment to cultural diversity and the ability to work with individuals or groups from diverse backgrounds. Teaching load is normally three courses per semester and includes upper-division, graduate, and general education courses. Traditional service functions, such as advising and committee work, are expected. Publications are necessary for advancement. Salary competitive.
