Residential Living Learning Communities

Global Leaders Community

The Global Leaders Community (GLC) is a unique initiative from the Office of Residential Life that is open to both men and women, who will live in an intentional community in Wehrenberg Hall. It is designed to enhance their experience of community and their understanding of the contributions of other cultures to a diverse and ever-changing world. The GLC will allow participants to:

- Cultivate understanding and appreciation for the interconnected world as it pertains to their individual career planning and decision making.
- Foster a sense of community that values global diversity and seeks opportunities for meaningful exploration of different cultural ideas and experiences.
- Craft and develop practical leadership skills through the planning, promotion and implementation of various programs and projects. These could include informational, orientation and re-entry sessions for students planning to attend or return from study abroad programs, international dinners, presentations by local experts that accentuate the appreciation of the history, culture and contributions for their country of choice, and much, much more!
- Request an international roommate and live in close proximity to students from a wide variety of cultural backgrounds.
