

Noun Cases

The cases in Latin all denote different grammatical and syntactical functions. This is a list of the most basic functions of each case, which must be understood in order to translate and read Latin effectively.

Case	Use(s)
Nominative	Subject Predicate Nominative
Genitive	Possession
Dative	Indirect Object
Accusative	Direct Object With a Preposition
Ablative	With a Preposition -separation, location, means...
Vocative	Direct Address

There are other functions, especially of the Accusative and Ablative cases, not listed here. However, these basics are common and crucial.

References from
www.thelatinlibrary.com/101/CaseUse2.pdf
 accessed 9/10/18

Noun Cases

The cases in Latin all denote different grammatical and syntactical functions. This is a list of the most basic functions of each case, which must be understood in order to translate and read Latin effectively.

Case	Use(s)
Nominative	Subject Predicate Nominative
Genitive	Possession
Dative	Indirect Object
Accusative	Direct Object With a Preposition
Ablative	With a Preposition -separation, location, means...
Vocative	Direct Address

There are other functions, especially of the Accusative and Ablative cases, not listed here. However, these basics are common and crucial.

References from
www.thelatinlibrary.com/101/CaseUse2.pdf
 accessed 9/10/18