CURRICULUM VITAE

Date of Birth: 30 July 1944

Married, one child

EDUCATION:

Ph.D. in Law, University of London, June 1979.

Thesis: Law, Development, and the Ethiopian Revolution
(published by Bucknell Univ. Press, 1982).

Juris Doctor, University of Wisconsin Law School, Madison, Wisconsin, June 1969. Honors: Kemper Knapp Scholarship. Activities: Law Students' Civil Rights Research Council. Admitted to Practice: State Bar of Wisconsin, August 1969.

B.A. (Honors) in Economics, Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Illinois, June 1966. Honors: Phi Beta Kappa. Activities: Film Workshop (film aesthetics and actual production), Teaching Assistantship in Economics, 1965-66.

EMPLOYMENT:

Chief Legal Advisor, Ministry of Justice, Republic of Indonesia, in Jakarta, January 1999 to August 2000. I helped draft and implement anti-corruption, administrative, arbitration, bankruptcy, competition policy (antitrust, including the establishment of the Commission), consumer protection, corporations and (a quasi-legal) corporate governance, judicial, lawyers' association letter of credit/warehouse receipt, rural land tenure, secured transactions, small business, and microcredit, WTO compliance, etc. legal and policy reforms. I also ran the small ($800,000/year), AID-funded Economic Law and Improved Procurement Systems Project (ELIPS).

Fulbright Professor, National Economics University, Hanoi, Vietnam, Sept.-Dec. 1998. As the first Fulbrighter in Vietnam, I taught International Trade Law to fourth-year law students; led a Faculty Seminar, composed of 22 younger lecturers in business administration, economics, and law, on recent reforms in economic laws; and lectured and consulted on a variety of subjects.

Professor of Law (tenured), Valparaiso University School of Law, August 1978 to present. Courses taught: Antitrust, Law and Economics, Contracts, and Seminars in Globalization (presently being taught, details on request), International Human Rights and in Law and Public Policy. I have from time to time served on the Curriculum, Faculty Recruitment, Tenured Faculty, Graduate Education, Library, and Visitors' Committees, on the University-wide Faculty Concerns Committee, and served as a Director of the University Federal Credit Union and as faculty advisor to the International Law Society and the University Rugby Team. Outside the University, I am active in the International Third World Legal Studies Assn., the Executive Committee of the Association of American Law School's African Law Section, the local ACLU Chapter's Legal Panel, and Editor of African Studies Review (1981-88 and Guest Editor for the Vol. 27 (4) World Bank Symposium). In Summer 1980, I received a National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowship to Yale University, for a Seminar led by the late Robert Cover in the evolution of the Supreme Court's economic and political thinking. In Summer 1983, I received a German Academic Exchange Commission research grant to investigate German and Common Market competition and industrial policies, as a guest of the Max Planck Institut in Munich.

Fulbright Professor of Law, Universiti Teknologi MARA, Malaysia, January to June 1988. I taught Law and Economics, led a variety of Faculty and student seminars, advised on curricular, funding, and administrative matters, and completed research on various topics.

Lecturer in Law (tenured), Brunel University, Middlesex, England, September 1975 to June 1978. Courses taught: Comparative Public Law (to M.A. in Comparative Law Students), Land Law (including planning law and landlord and tenant components), Contracts, and English Legal System. I was the Departmental Examinations Tutor.

Assistant Professor of Law, Addis Ababa University (formerly Haile Selassie I University), Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, September 1973 to April 1975. Courses taught: Law and Development, Natural Resource Law, Administrative Law, and (with Scholler) Jurisprudence. I was an elected member of the Law Faculty Academic Commission, Law Faculty-Institute of Development Research Liaison Officer, and advisor to the Ministry of Finance concerning the reorganization of public corporations.

*Lecturer in Law, University of Malawi School of Law, September 1970 to July 1973. Courses taught: Real Property, Legal Method, Criminal Law, Jurisprudence, short courses with Traditional Court Judges, and, with other faculty members, Customary Law. I was a member of the Malawi Law Society (Bar Association), the Secretary to the Editorial Board of the University of Malawi Journal of Social Sciences, member of the Board of the Social Science Research Institute of the University of Malawi, and consultant to the Attorney General concerning criminal law and procedure.*

Teaching educationally-disadvantaged students at the secondary school level, Chicago Board of Education, September 1969 to June 1970.

Research position with Attorney Lloyd A. Barbee, Milwaukee, Wisconsin (1969), in conjunction with the Milwaukee schools de facto segregation suit.
