

Our Halls

What halls do first-year students reside in?

The main halls that our first-year students reside in are Lankenau and Alumni Halls. See the Room Amenities section below for specific building amenities.

What halls do transfer students reside in?

Transfer students live with their class cohort. Upper-class students generally reside in Beacon Hall or Guild/Memorial Hall. There is limited availability in our Promenade Apartments.

How are roommates assigned? Can I request someone?

Mutual requests for specific roommates are honored when possible; otherwise, roommates are paired using the information supplied on your On-Campus Housing Application.

Students can request a specific individual as their roommate. To select a roommate, students log into their Housing Self-Service (via DataVU) and click on "Select Roommates" under the "Room Selection" tab. Students can then type in a specific name or search for a roommate based on living preferences. Each request then must be accepted by the other person. First-year students can only select one roommate since all first-year spaces only hold two students.

When will I find out about my building and roommate assignments?

Room assignment information is sent via email prior to FOCUS for students with priority housing (deposited by April 14) and those who have completed their housing application by Monday, May 29. Students who complete their application after May 29 will receive their housing assignment at the end of June. Along with your assignment, you will receive the name and contact information of your roommate(s) and information on move-in & check-in procedures. Room assignments will also be available through a student's Housing Self-Service (accessible through DataVU).

I don't want a roommate; can I have a single room?

Unfortunately, due to a more limited inventory this year, singles will not be offered this year other than to students with accommodations.

What if I require an accommodation based on a medical need?

Students must submit a Medical/Special Accommodation Request, which includes documentation from a medical professional. Decisions about accommodations are determined by the Access and Accommodations Resource Center (AARC). The Medical/Special Accommodation form can be found on our website or by emailing our office and is due Monday, May 29 at 5 pm.

What is the deadline for roommate requests and building requests?

- Students who deposit by Friday, April 14 are able to request and confirm roommates until 5 pm Monday, May 29 when the priority housing application closes.
- Students who deposit AFTER Friday, April 14, and complete their housing application prior to 5 pm Monday, May 29 are able to request and confirm roommates until 5 pm Monday, May 29 when the priority housing application closes.
- Students who deposit AFTER Friday, April 14, and complete their housing application between Monday, June 5 and Friday, June 23 must request and confirm roommates by 5 pm Friday, June 23.

Building Amenities

Where can I do laundry?

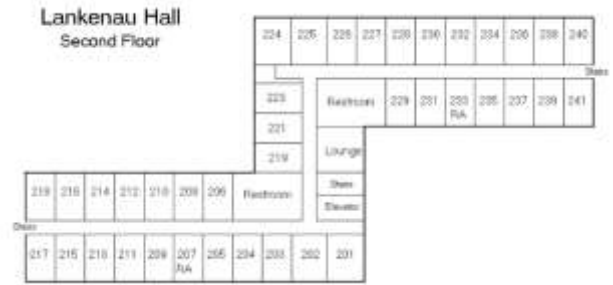

Every residence hall has a laundry area, the cost is built into the university room rate. All washers are high-efficiency (HE) machines.

Where are the restrooms and showers?

All our first-year residence halls have two community bathrooms on each floor. The bathrooms include toilets, showers, and sinks. Restrooms are cleaned daily by Building Services Staff. The first floors of Alumni and Lankenau have limited rooms with private bathrooms for upper-class students. Students in these spaces are responsible for cleaning their bathrooms. Beacon Hall is a suite-style building where each suite has shared bathroom spaces that are cleaned by our building services staff on a regular rotation.

Is storage space available in the residence halls?

Yes, limited storage space is located in most residence halls for use by current residents only. Due to limited space, only students from more than 500 miles away from the University are allowed to store belongings and are limited to one 30-gallon storage bin. More information is available here: <https://www.valpo.edu/reslife/housing-forms/storage/>

How do I get mail?

Student mail is delivered to the Harre Student Union. A student's address (unit #) will be sent via email with their housing assignment notice and stays the same for as long as the student resides on campus. The mailing address format is:

Student Name
1509 Chapel Dr., Unit (number)
Valparaiso, IN 46383

The mail center will begin accepting packages for the 2023-2024 academic year beginning August 1.

Room Amenities

The main halls that our first-year students reside in are Lankenau and Alumni Halls. Each hall has the same room size (11.5' x 13') and layout. The lobbies of both halls were renovated in the summer of 2021. The rooms in both buildings have built-in furniture, tile floors, and sinks in the room. Beds are Twin XL bolster beds, which are beds that can be pulled out into a bed or pushed into a couch.

Can I decorate my room?

Absolutely! We want you to make yourself at home, so feel free to decorate your room with these stipulations in mind: please use adhesives that come off easily (3M Strips and Sticky Tac work well on cinderblock walls), and don't use anything that would damage the wall or wood in the room, no drilling into the wall/wood, no hanging decorations from or on the ceiling. Furniture and equipment are not to be removed from an assigned place of use (this includes desk chairs).

Can I build a loft in my room?

For student safety, we prohibit lofts and bed risers in all residence halls.

What is the cable like?

Cable television is provided to campus residents and is built into your university room rate. Valpo receives a customized channel line-up including entertainment, sports, news, local broadcast and educational content, and our own VUTV. Bring a cable-ready television set and a coaxial cable to connect the television to the outlet in the wall.

What is the internet like?

Each room has one network port. All residence halls have wireless network services throughout the residence hall. If residents want to connect to wired internet, they should bring an Ethernet cable. Each residence hall also has a 24-hour computer lab with a printer that utilizes the University's print quota system.

Prohibited Appliances

Hot plates, toasters, space heaters, open heating coil appliances, individual AC units, etc. are not permitted in the residence hall rooms.

What is a MicroFridge?

Each residence hall room is outfitted with a MicroFridge an all-in-one combination refrigerator/freezer/microwave oven engineered with Safe Plug technology to save electricity and reduce the risk of overloading circuits. Students do not need to bring a fridge or microwave as one is provided but are responsible for cleaning the unit at the end of the year to the standard it was provided at.

Hall Staffing

Who do I go to if I have a question or need help?

Residential Learning Coordinators (RLCs) are full-time, master's level professional staff members who live in each residence hall. They assist students with personal or academic issues, supervise the Resident Assistant staff, advise the House Council, and monitor building operations.

Resident Assistants (RAs) are upper-class students who serve as peer advisors and educators for students living in the residence halls. RAs go through an extensive screening and training process to prepare them to work with students. RAs are a valuable resource to students in the transition to a new environment, helping residents develop time management and academic success skills, and creating opportunities for students to meet others and make new friends.

What to Bring

What size bedding should we buy?

Residence Hall mattresses are twin extra-long. Alumni and Lankenau halls have bolster beds, beds that pull out and are like a daybed. We have a partnership with Our Campus Market where students can order linen and have it shipped to their homes for free. To order: Visit the website: valpo.ocm.com

What size carpet should we buy?

We recommend buying a remnant and cutting it to the size when you move into your room. Carpets cannot go under the beds in Lankenau or Alumni Halls because the frames are secured to the floor.

Should I get insurance for my personal belongings?

If your family has personal property insurance at home, check to make sure that the policy covers your belongings while you are at school. If it does not, consider purchasing renter's insurance. Valparaiso University is not responsible for the personal property of students.

Living in Community – Things to know!

Sharing a living space with other people is similar to any other relationship. To be successful it requires openness, flexibility, respect, and compromise. Right from the beginning, it is very important to communicate openly with your roommate & neighbors. Learning to live with other people, to acknowledge and respect each other's differences, and to allow one another the space to grow is one of the most valuable parts of our residential experience. Below are suggestions for you to use to start conversations and relationships with your new Valpo family.

1. General "stuff" (like computer, printers, iPads, etc.). Is it okay to use each other's "stuff"? If so, are some things off limits? What happens if something breaks? What happens if something gets broken or stolen on somebody else's watch?
2. Schedules. What are your schedules like? Is one person a night owl? An early bird? Do you want some quiet time when you get done with class after lunch? Or time to hang out with friends in the room?
3. Study time. When does each person study? How do they study (quietly? with music? with the TV on?)? What does each person need from the other to make sure they get adequate study time and can keep up in their classes?
4. Private time. Let's be honest: it is college. You and/or your roommate might very well be dating someone and want time alone with them. What's the deal with getting time alone in the room? How much time is okay -- too much? How much advance notice is needed? Are there times when it's not okay (like finals week)?
5. Borrowing/Taking/Replacing. It's practically inevitable not to borrow or take something from your roommate over the course of the year. Are there rules about borrowing/taking -- e.g., it's okay to eat some of my food as long as you leave some for me?
6. Space. This may sound silly, but think -- and talk -- about space. Do you want your roommate's friends hanging out on your bed while you're gone? At your desk? Do you like your space neat? Clean? Messy? How would you feel if your roommate's clothes started sneaking over to your side of the room?
7. Visitors. When is it okay to have people hanging out in the room? People staying over? How many people are okay? Who needs what when it comes to visitors -- e.g., is a quiet study group okay late at night or should no one be allowed in the room after, say 1:00 am?
8. Noise. Do both of you like the default to be quiet in the room? Music? I the TV on as background? What do you need to study? What do you need to sleep? Can someone use earplugs or headphones? How much noise is too much?
9. Food. Can you eat each other's food? Will you share? If so, who buys what? What happens if someone eats the last of an item? What happens if the fridge turns into a science project; who cleans it out? What kinds of food are okay to keep in the room?
10. Alcohol & Drugs. Valpo is a dry campus and students documented for alcohol will go through the Student Conduct process. How do you feel about keeping alcohol in the room? Using and/or possessing drugs and/or drug-related paraphernalia will result in a person(s) getting arrested and possible suspension or expulsion from the University. How do you feel about keeping those items in the room?
